ABIT NIX MAY RUN FOR SENATE PLACE AGAINST RUSSELL

Talmadge for Senate,
Redwine for Governor
Now Believed Certainly by Capital Observers as Entry Closing Nears.

NIX URGED TO RUN BY MANY LEADERS

Plans of Hugh Howell
Unknown as Chairman
Keeps Silence Despite
All Sorts of Rumors.

By L. A. FARRELL.

With the Talmadge-for-senate and Redwine-for-governor lineup an apparent certainty, interest in state politics yesterday centered about the ambitions of Hugh Howell to run for governor, in spite of his being passed up by Talmadge, and the persistent reports that Abit Nix, of Athens, will enter the senate race against Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., and Governor Talmadge.

From all over the state came pleadings to Nix to enter the senate race and the Athens man is expected to have a statement today or early tomorrow.

As for Howell, the chairman of the state democratic executive committee, nothing definite could be learned concerning his plans for the future.

"Nothing to Say."
Asked what he intended to do, the state chairman replied:
"I have nothing to say at this time. I probably will have a statement at 11 o'clock Saturday morning."

Entries will be closed at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and it is expected the chairman will follow the course he set for himself in 1934 by personally closing these entries. However, it is understood that those in charge of Governor Talmadge's program at McRae have left 10 minutes of the radio time open to the chairman, anticipating he will make some sort of a speech.

Reports heard over the city yesterday had him running for governor, without Talmadge support, had him taking a walk by going to Europe for the summer and had him back in his usual place as "Talmadge's Hunchman No. 1." It was pretty generally agreed the public would have to wait.

Death Toll Now 23 In Texas Inundation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 2.—(AP)—Disastrous floods, devastating in their swiftness, poured new destruction into south Texas Tuesday, leaving 23 known dead, many missing and steadily increasing crop and property damage over a widening area.

Stricken sections appealed for aid over crippled communication lines, downstream towns braced for fresh crests swelled by fresh rains. Hundreds of thousands of fertile farm acres lay stripped of corn and cotton crops.

Twenty-three bodies have been recovered, Gonzales, 60 miles south of here and the hardest hit sector, reported two lowland families missing.

Reform School's Head Quits in Lash Probe

Tennessee Governor Names New Superintendent, Pledged to Banishment of Whip; Grand Jury Discloses Cruelties.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 2.—(AP)—Controversy over administration of the state reform school, which the grand jury charged had been "most inhumanly operated," ended today when Superintendent G. Newt Choate "just quit" without submitting his resignation.

Governor McCallister, acting on reports of investigations made by the grand jury and by the State Department of Institutions, called on Choate last night to resign, but the superintendent declined.

"I have declined to resign, but after considering the thing for a while I decided to just quit," Choate said today in explaining the severance of his connection. As for the Governor's demand, Choate said he could "see no motive in anything that's been done except political."

Choate came under the grand jury's fire during the investigators' personal visit to the reform school after an inmate had exhibited scars he said were inflicted by a lash.

The jury said testimony showed brutal beatings had been inflicted and that sometimes the spoke of a wagon wheel was used. It said there was a "strong stream of evidence" that Choate not only was advised of "the terrible and inhuman treatment," but was close at hand while boys cried out in pain.

Choate denied all charges of brutality and said "spankings" of inmates had not averaged one a year for each boy. Straps that figured in the investigation, he related, were at the school when he became head and he said he had "eliminated" their use. He charged some inmates had lashed each other so they could blame the guards.

C. C. Meador, superintendent of the Tennessee Industrial school, was appointed Choate's successor and announced he would "put the school on a humane and rehabilitation basis," with use of straps banned.

Commissioner of Institutions E. L. Pardee urged that all boys who had escaped "during this period of change and excitement" return voluntarily and promised immunity from punishment. Forty have fled in the last few days and 28 are still at large. Three escaped today and six went down a rope made of sheets last night.

Choate's resignation was accepted by the governor. He was to have been paid $100,000 for his services.

NEGUS ASKS LOAN TO DEFEND HONOR OF FALLEN EMPIRE

"King of Kings" Takes
Two Bold Stands in Defense of Country; Cites
Non-Recognition Article

GENEVA, July 2.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, "King of Kings," his hopes shaken by developments at Geneva, took two bold steps tonight in an attempt to save his country from complete domination by Italy.

First, he asked the League for a loan of $50,000,000 to "defend her integrity." Then he sent to the assembly a draft of a resolution calling attention to provisions in articles X and XVI of the covenant for non-recognition of annexation obtained by force of arms.

The Negus, who delivered a personal appeal to the assembly two days ago, said Ethiopia has a right to assistance from the League under article XVI.

He recommended that League members guarantee the loan, which would be floated by Ethiopia under conditions to be fixed by the council and after consultation with a League financial committee.

Haile Selassie said he had placed before League nations questions to which with few exceptions the powers had not given a clear reply "in the present tragic circumstances."

For the sake of nations "which may be menaced by future aggression," he said, "it is important frankly and loyally, without equivocation, for each nation to take its responsibility by its vote."

A call for an immediate peace conference by leading nations to "prevent a European war" was made unexpectedly.

LEWIS PROMISES STRIKELESS DRIVE TO UNIONIZE STEEL

Says Only Provocation by Operators To Be Feared; Committee Decides
To Ignore A. F. L. Order.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP)—John L. Lewis promised a strikeless steel organization campaign tonight, saying that if industrial strife came it would be "due solely to the provocative policy of the corporations engaged in the steel industry."

After a meeting of the committee for industrial organization, Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said:

"It is the committee's purpose to conduct this campaign in a perfectly legal manner within the law, and in harmony with the rights of the workers as defined by the federal statutes."

Would Avoid Strike.
"It is not the committee's purpose to bring about a strike in the steel industry. The committee desires to avoid industrial strife and disturbance or violence of any character."

The statement represented an answer to a statement by the American Iron & Steel Institute, representing employers, that "the announced drive, with its accompanying agitation for industrial strife threatens" to cause strikes.

The committee discussed briefly, then shelved, at least temporarily, their quarrel with the American Federation of Labor about how workers should be organized. The unions affiliated with Lewis think all the workers in each big industry should be organized into one big union. Fed-

Paris Communist Foe Unseated by Deputies

Chiaffie, Prefect of Police During Stavisky Scandal, Forced Out of Chamber, 282-193; France Bids for Nazi Pact in Offer To Overlook Rhine Re-Arming.

PARIS, July 2.—(AP)—An avalanche of leftist votes swept Jean Chiaffie, communist-hated former prefect of Paris police, from his chamber of deputies seat tonight.

The chamber, with communists howling "Chiaffie in Prison!" "Chiaffie in Prison!" and with rightists bolting the session en masse, voted to oust Chiaffie from its membership. The ballot was 282 to 193.

This demonstration of leftist strength coincided with information that France is willing to forgive Germany's repudiation of the Locarno treaty if Adolf Hitler agrees to negotiate a new security pact.

Premier Leon Blum, it was added, is ready to abandon the French demand that the reich promise not to fortify the Rhineland and to limit troops in the region, in the hope of getting Germany into a "new Locarno" lineup.

Blum's plan was said to call for the sketching of a new Locarno by France, Great Britain and Belgium at a meeting in Brussels. Italy would be included if Premier Mussolini agreed.

German delegates would then be asked to discuss the new pact. Hitler refused to accept the London agreement of March 1935 calling for a virtual military alliance between France, Britain, Belgium and Italy would be put into force.

WALLACE ORDERS PRICE SAFEGUARDS FOR MEAT BUYERS

AAA and Surplus Commodity Corporation Ordered To Co-operate in Program To Relieve Distress in Drouth Area.

SOME RELIEF SEEN IN RAIN FORECAST

Situation Easier in All But Dakotas, Montana and Iowa; 100,000 Fam- ilies Need Assistance.

By the Associated Press.
Purchase of 1,000,000 cattle from drouth-seared ranges was authorized by Secretary Henry A. Wallace yesterday. In Duluth, Minn., to address a bankers' convention, the secretary wired Washington ordering the AAA and the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation to co-operate in a program of purchasing and processing livestock and donation to state relief agencies. He emphasized that the program must be carried out in such a manner that consumers will be protected. Five million dollars was tentatively allocated.

Forecasting rain for the Ohio valley, the southeastern states and parts of Minnesota and North Dakota, the weather bureau yesterday reported precipitation this week had relieved the serious situation in all the affected states but the Dakotas, Montana and Iowa.

President Roosevelt's special drouth committee, in Washington, expected to have the relief program in definite shape by next week. It was estimated that 100,000 families now require assistance as WPA administrators in five northwestern states hurriedly erected machinery to employ 50,000 men on water conserving and other projects.

Wheat prices jumped to over a dollar a bushel yesterday on Chicago market, an advance of five cents, the maximum permitted by trading regulations, and news that the deterioration of grains was spreading unabated, engulfing Canadian crops, too.

PIUS ORDERS WAR ON 'BAD MOVIES'

Bishops Are Told To Organize National Film
Reviewing Offices.

VATICAN CITY, July 2.—(AP)—Pope Pius ordered a permanent, organized fight of the Roman Catholic church today to save the world from the "debasing" influence of "bad films."

To that end he told his bishops throughout the world to establish boards of review to advise the faithful of the films they might view "with impunity."

Finally, his holiness enjoined the clergy to obtain pledges from their communicants, renewable each year, to stay away from pictures which were "contrary to truth and Christian morality."

In the first encyclical addressed directly to leaders of the Catholic church in the United States, the 70-year-old pontiff demanded "painstaking vigilance over the motion picture."

All right-thinking men, Catholic and non-Catholic, will help assure that the noble end of promoting the highest ideals and the truest standard of life," he said.

Flays Injurious Films.
Pope Pius, in directing bishops to set up "national offices" to review films, specified those which "seduce young people . . . glorify passions . . . show life under a false light . . . destroy pure love and respect for marriage."

Regional boards, he said, may "even censor films which are admitted to the general list."

The pope praised the United States episcopate for reforms which he said had been effected by "The Legion of Decency."

He explained he sought to direct

EX-U. S. NAVY MAN TRIED AS JAP SPY

Witness Asserts Yeoman
Sold Secrets to Japan
Through Senior Official

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—(UP)—In one of the most carefully guarded court proceedings since war-time, the United States government tonight began to lay before a federal jury evidence on which it seeks to convict Harry Thompson, tall, curly-haired ex-navy yeoman, as a spy.

The government case was described as "particularly delicate" because it involves assertions that Thompson, through a Japanese naval officer, sold navy gunnery and aircraft secrets to Japan.

A Japanese banker tonight testified that Thompson, who was put in prison in 1929, had been paid $100,000 by a Japanese navy official.

Japanese Account.
B. Hirano, assistant manager of the Yokohama Specie Bank in San Francisco, identified markings on bank records indicating that money paid to Thompson came from the Irving Trust Company of New York.

The money was deposited to the account of Toshio Miyazaki, lieutenant commander in the Japanese navy, indicted jointly with Thompson as a spy.

Thompson was arrested in 1929, after he had been in Japan for some time. He was held in a Japanese prison for some time.

Edgar Tells of Witnessing Tryst Between His Wife and Mallory

MIAMI, Fla., July 2.—(AP)—James Edgar Jr., Michigan sugar heir, told a jury today of witnessing a hotel room tryst between his wife and Lewis E. Mallory III, wealthy Pennsylvania banker, but denied he "went around snooping on her."

The 27-year-old Edgar's testimony was given at the trial of his $200,000 suit against Mallory for alleged seduction and alienation of the affections of Kathryn Crawford Edgar.

In an unsteady voice, Edgar testified regarding his wife from whom he was divorced only last Friday. He said he besought Mallory to marry her but that the latter said "he didn't love her and couldn't marry her."

ESTIMATES CLASH ON JOBLESS TOLL

Secretary Perkins Gives
May Figures; A. F. of L.
Also Issues Statistics.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor today dropped a May unemployment estimate of 11,250,000 into a new outbreak of the perennial dispute over the number of jobless.

A few hours earlier Secretary Perkins told his press conference that the figures used in a New York Sun estimate were "inadequate" and that all unemployment estimates were "unreliable." The Sun's claim that only 3,500,000 had been found in certain areas was "too low," she said.

At the same time, Miss Perkins said that 30,945,000 persons were engaged in non-military work in May, 1935, compared with 35,978,000 in May, 1929, and 26,312,000 in May, 1933. Another 12,000,000 were working on farms and in the home.

Miss Perkins said unemployment estimates were "unreliable" for many reasons, among them being the lack of an accepted definition for unemployment and the general difficulty of counting the jobless.

"Is John Jones, an out-of-work carpenter now working on a truck farm, an unemployed carpenter or an employed farmer?" she asked.

At the present rate of re-employment, industrial activity will have to rise far beyond 1929 levels to put the unemployed to work," the labor survey added, after stating that business activity in May was only 5.7 per cent below normal.

SHOWERS TO BRING COOLER WEATHER

Rains Are Here To Stay,
Says Forecaster, With
"Unsettled" 4th Likely.

Crop-nurishing, body-cooling showers that will drive the mercury below 90 degrees today for the first time this week, are here for an indefinite stay, according to Atlanta's weather forecasters.

No word was forthcoming from Chief Forecaster George W. Minding yesterday as to prospects for the weather outlook for the Fourth of July. Minding merely said:

"If we had an out and out prospect for fair weather for the Fourth, I would be glad to announce it. But with the weather as unsettled as it is, I should say there is considerable prospect of rain remaining unsettled over the holidays."

Shower to Continue.
The storm center moving eastward yesterday over Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama was scheduled to start today over the Gulf of Mexico and these are to continue throughout today.

Temperatures today, according to Minding, should start at 74 degrees this morning and rise no higher than 88 degrees during the afternoon.

The scattered showers that struck Atlanta about noon yesterday were purely local, but were a forerunner of what is in prospect with the arrival of the storm center that is moving in from the south.

WALLACE AUTHORIZES PURCHASE OF CATTLE

DULUTH, Minn., July 2.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced today he had authorized government purchase and processing of cattle forced off the north central ranges by the drouth.

The secretary was here to address the Minnesota State Bankers' convention.

In a wire to Washington, Secretary Wallace approved the purchase of up to a million head of livestock through the AAA and the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation.

"Believe Agricultural Adjustment Administration in co-operation with Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation should move at once to develop preliminary plans for purchase and processing of part of the cattle being forced off the range because of extreme drouth conditions in northwest areas. Purchases should be arranged so as to effect largest measure of relief to producers without enhancing the beef prices to consumers. Fed-

MY COOKERY

By MISS RUTH CHAMBERS.

The up-to-date mother who plans meals for her children is well aware of the great importance of the right food. And the woman who wants to lose superfluous weight becomes very conscious of the fact that what she eats has much to do with her appearance. But except in these circumstances, the average woman pays far too little attention to the role which the right food plays in keeping one fit for all the energy demands of daily life.

It is not only in childhood that a balanced diet is essential, and the housewife who is planning for a family of adults needs to know something of food values as well as does the mother of children.

One can eat to satisfy the appetite, and still not be well nourished. And this lack of the right kind of food for the body results in fatigue, a lack of "pep," lowered resistance to disease and sometimes to the beginning of various maladies.

Three kinds of food are needed in the daily diet of adults and of children, of those who are over-weight, who are under-weight and those who are neither. The three kinds are:

- (1) Food which provides energy.
- (2) Building material for growth and repair. High quality protein is essential for this.
- (3) Minerals and vitamins as body regulators.

Meat provides the best quality protein, also fat for energy. The protein of meat is superior in quality to any of the vegetable proteins.

Liver is the best known source of iron, and the kidneys and lean beef also rank high in this food element. Liver, and in fact all meats rank high in the amount of phosphorus, which combines with calcium to form strong bones and teeth.

Milk for calcium, fruits and green vegetables for vitamins and roughage, should also be included liberally in the diet.

Spaghetti With Liver.

Nutrition experts advise a serving of liver at least once a week as one of the best safeguards against nutritional anemia for all. Here is a tempting way to serve it.

One pound liver, 3 tablespoons lard, 1 small onion, 2 cups tomatoes, 1 package spaghetti, 1 cup grated cheese.

Cut liver into half-inch cubes. Dust with flour, salt and pepper and brown with the onion in the hot lard. Add tomatoes and simmer 20 minutes. Cook spaghetti in salted water until tender. Coat on a hot plate and pour the tomato sauce over it. Sprinkle with cheese and serve the remaining pieces in small bowls as it may be added to suit the individual taste.

Boiled Heart With Raisins and Rice.

Beef heart ranks high in food value and should be served more often. Try this nutritious dish.

One beef heart, 6 cups water, 3-4 cup rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 3-4 raisins, 1-2 cup walnut, 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Wash heart, remove tubes and gristle, cover with boiling water, boil 10 minutes, then cook in fireless cooker or on top of stove for about three hours, or until tender. Add washed rice, salt and pepper, and cook 30 minutes. Drain off the rice, add raisins seeded, nuts cut in pieces, lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, and bring to boiling point. Place heart in center of platter, surround with cooked rice, pour the nuts and raisins over the heart and garnish with parsley.

NEW ENGLAND STATES CLAIMED FOR LONDON

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, eastern campaign manager for the republican party, said today after a trip through New England he was confident Governor Alf M. Landon would carry all the New England states.

He said he had found in eastern industrial centers resentment against the Roosevelt administration.

"They feel the New Deal has been a hardship to them," he declared. "This is particularly true in the textile centers."

Although he has not yet visited New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Martin said reports he had received from leaders in those states had led him to believe Landon would carry them. He also predicted the Kansas governor would carry New York.

RE-ELECTION IS ASKED BY SOLICITOR BOYKIN

Fulton Prosecutor Qualifies To Succeed Himself in Primary.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin yesterday qualified to succeed himself in that office.

"My staff is an efficient organization which has rendered great service to the public," Boykin said in an informal statement yesterday afternoon.

"We have responded to the call of the large and small businessman and have virtually wiped out the fake damage claim racket," the solicitor asserted. "We have obtained 32 convictions in this racket and have exposed lawyers, doctors and others who were participating in fabricating false damage claims which were supported by perjured testimony. A number are under indictment now and still others will be indicted."

"My office is ready to continue its fight against these unscrupulous persons who prey on the businessmen and I feel that my staff is utterly qualified to carry on this job. I do not attempt to rule the ethics of the bar, but lawyers and all others guilty of crime should be brought to justice," he declared.

Boykin is now rounding out his twentieth year as solicitor of the Fulton superior court. Recently he was given a testimonial dinner by more than 300 members of the Atlanta Bar Association who praised him for excellent work in stamping out the fake damage claim racket.

FEDERAL PROBE URGED IN CAROLINA FLOGGINGS

Solicitor Burney Declares
'War to the Death' on Nightriders.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 2.—(AP) A possible opening for a federal investigation of floggings attributed to night-riding "vigilantes" in near-by Columbus county appeared today as local officials maintained a clam-like silence about their plans.

The Star-News announced it had made available to postal authorities a purported confession by a self-styled member of the hooded band, which is accused of beating at least four women and two men on the pretext that they were "undesirable."

The "confession" set forth that all intended victims of the floggers were first warned by letter to leave the county upon pain of being "disciplined" by the vigilantes, the paper said. If the letters were sent by mail instead of by messenger, it was pointed out, the postal laws would apply.

Postal authorities here said there were forwarding the self-styled vigilante's affidavit to Washington.

Solicitor J. J. Burney, who announced a "war to the death" upon the night riders when their activities were disclosed in the course of a newspaper trial in Whiteville, seat of Columbus county, last week, would not discuss the case today.

The Star-News quoted him yesterday as saying he expected to go to Whiteville within the next few days to take part in an investigation. At Whiteville, Sheriff John W. Hall said his plans call for beginning an investigation next week.

The paper reported it had received a letter today signed with the name of a preacher of Clarendon, in which the nocturnal floggings and hair-cuttings were alleged to have been committed, advising authorities to "clean out the Clarendon section of undesirables and night riders who be no more."

In the purported confession, the newspaper said its informant told of the organization of the "vigilantes" to operate secretly with the slogan, "Change or kill" in driving so-called "undesirables" from the Clarendon vicinity.

CARROLL WOMEN URGE ELECTION OF FORTSON

Meeting Organizes Club To Aid Weltner Move Candidate for Governor.

CARROLLTON, Ga., July 2.—The Carroll County Women's "Fortson" for Governor Club, the first in the state, was organized at a meeting of women here yesterday under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Reynolds Cobb. Mrs. Cobb called the session which was attended by about 25 women of this county.

The club unanimously adopted a resolution praising the Weltner convention which nominated Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, as its candidate for governor, the resolution condemning the Talmadge administration.

Mrs. Thomas R. Luck, a delegate to the recent democratic national convention at Philadelphia told of meeting Judge Fortson, a fellow delegate, and outlined his characteristics. Mrs. C. K. Henderson Jr., outlined and interpreted the platform adopted by the Weltner convention and Mrs. Warren Cantrell read a sketch of the candidate's life.

The resolution endorsing Judge Fortson's candidacy was presented by Mrs. R. E. Foster.

The resolution declared that for the last four years the peace and dignity of the state has been "a meaningless phrase," and asserted that under Judge Fortson Georgia would be placed back in the hands of people favoring good government.

STEPHEN J. ADAM.

MAN DIES ON STREET, BELIEVED NEW YORKER

Heart Attack Victim
Thought To Be Stephen J.
Adam, New York.

The heat wave or a sudden heart attack was blamed for the death of a man who dropped dead at 7 o'clock last night as he was entering a cafeteria at 189 Peachtree street, N. E.

The victim, according to identification established through his registration at a downtown hotel Wednesday night, was Stephen J. Adam, of New York city. He appeared to be about 60 years old. The address entered on the hotel register was 101 West Thirty-first street, with the telephone number Longacre 5-9167. Another address, 52 West Forty-second street, and the telephone number Longacre 5-9061, had been marked through by him on the register.

He was taken to Grady hospital in an ambulance called by passing pedestrians and pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. The cause of the death was either effects of the heat wave or a heart attack, hospital attaches declared. The body was referred to Awtry & Lowndes Funeral Home.

Complained of Heat.
Employees at the hotel where Mr. Adam had registered said he had complained of the heat and had declared he stopped in Atlanta en route from New York to Chipley, Fla., because he was bothered by the hot weather while traveling. He had said he intended resuming the journey to the Florida city last night, hotel attendants reported. He was to visit A. Deermont, manager of the A. & W. P. railroad at Chipley, it was learned.

Among the victim's personal effects were found several railroad passes, one describing him as a "colonization agent." Other papers bore the name "Catholic Colonization Society."

Passports in Possession.
Passports to the major Central American countries also were found when his hotel room was examined to establish his identity. Other records disclosed he was born in Czechoslovakia, was married in 1906 in Austria-Hungary and was divorced in 1917 in Cook county, Illinois.

Several hundred dollars in traveler's checks was found on his person. The body is being held at Awtry & Lowndes pending word from relatives or friends.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP)—Obstacles in the way of operating low cost housing projects were clear today as the George-Healey bill became law.

President Roosevelt approved the measure, which authorized the secretary of the interior, among other things, to fix rentals without regard to liquidating of the government's investment.

In addition, the bill permits the government to pay states and municipalities a sum in lieu of taxes, receiving in return police and fire protection on the project sites.

It affected government housing enterprises all over the country, including two in Atlanta, Ga.

Although 82 years old, Baer is thinking of the future rather than the past. His interests are in further development of his store and the town which he adopted more than half a century ago.

ARABIAN UPRISING DRAWING TO CLOSE

More Than 140 Persons Are Slain During 3 Months of Violence.

JERUSALEM, July 2.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—Although scattered Arab disorders continued, peace appeared to be nearing in Palestine today after almost three months of unprecedented Arab violence that cost the lives of more than 140 Jews, Arabs and Christians.

It was reported a crucial meeting had been scheduled for an early date between some members of the Arab supreme committee, prominent Arab merchants and leading bank directors, including S. Hooftien, of the Anglo-Palestine Bank, important Jewish institution.

The meeting reportedly will consider the question of a moratorium for Arab merchants. Chief points to be discussed, it is understood, will be a method of avoiding bankruptcies and protests of bills by Arab merchants after they have reopened stores which have been closed for 11 weeks in the general strike against Jewish immigration.

Veteran Jewish observers said in their opinion the Arabs have reached the end of their financial rope. Leaders of the strike, pressed by the rank and file of Arab merchants and laborers who have been suffering economic hardship as a result of the protracted struggle, are believed, with the exception of a few die-hard youths, ready to capitulate.

for constructing a bigger and faster companion to the S. S. Queen Mary were begun tentatively today on the Clydebank.

In shipping circles it was said the liner, if constructed, would probably be christened the King George V, in honor of the late monarch.

An official order for the construction still is awaited. It was suggested the projected liner would have a tonnage of about 85,000 as compared to the 80,773 of the Queen Mary.

CCC CAMPS FOR GIRLS PLANNED BY PRESIDENT

50 Units Throughout Country Proposed for Jobless Women.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—The New Deal set out tonight to attack the depression from this angle—CCC camps for girls with feminine frills thrown in.

The plan is to use a few millions of WPA's $1,425,000,000 to establish 50 centers throughout the country where between 3,000 and 5,000 jobless women may earn and learn at federal expense.

Enlistment will be drawn from every state in the Union with a promise that the government will aid each girl in getting private work in domestic service, nursing or recreation after an eight-month term.

The program, heartily endorsed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will be launched some time when the President asks the budget bureau to set aside funds to finance the camps.

Unemployed Girls.

Pending a formal announcement, National Youth Administrator Aubrey W. Williams would disclose only this fragment of information:

"Special consideration for unemployed girls and women is to be given under the new NYA program through the establishment of some 50 residential camps which will operate in a manner similar to the CCC but without army supervision of discipline."

"While full details have yet to be worked out, the camps, all of whom will be drawn from relief rolls, will engage in educational, cultural and recreational projects as well as doing light landscaping and similar work."

Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, who will direct the camps, and Miss Hilda Smith, who started the idea in the bygone days of direct relief, were a little more charitable.

Preferences Planned.

The plan is, they disclosed, to set up camps only where state ask for them. They will be established in Y. W. C. A., 4-H Club camps, in unused school buildings, hotels, etc., any place WPA can get rent free.

Girls will enroll in groups from 50 to 100. They must be between 15 and 25 years old, unmarried women receiving preference, in good physical health, mentally alert and interested in education.

State WPA directors with federal help, will select camp directors, teachers and supervisors on the basis of experience, ability and personality.

The girls will do the camp work, cook the meals, wash the dishes, make the beds. In addition, they will attend regular classes in home economics, health, training in citizenship and other useful subjects.

The young women also will be expected to do other useful work. There will be sewing circles, small canning and preserving plants.

Expenditures Estimated.

The Misses de Schweinitz and Smith said Williams, when he mentioned light landscaping tasks, "must have meant growing seedlings and shrubs for state highway departments or state park services in some states."

Costs to the government, according to camps run in the past, will be about $10 a week per girl. That included $1.50 a week spending money for each feminine enrollee.

Discipline will be left up to the girls, and the self-governing committees they elect. There will be plenty of time of play and ample rest periods. Asked if the girls would work CCC examples and wear uniforms, the Misses de Schweinitz and Smith had this to say in chorus:

"Heavens, no! Please!"

SON ELIMINATED IN HOSTESS' DEATH

Sign Painter Offers Clue by Asserting Note Shows Experience.

CHICAGO, July 2.—(UP)—A sign painter turned amateur detective, today offered authorities deductions which pointed to a person experienced in painting signs on glass as the murderer of Florence Thompson, 34, cabaret entertainer.

Captain William O'Brien, who eliminated the victim's 7-year-old son, Jimmy Thompson, as a suspect in the fantastic case, received a letter from D. Conway, Milwaukee sign painter, who had analyzed the cryptic, misspelled message "Black Legion game" drawn in lipstick on the mirror of Mrs. Castle's room.

Captain O'Brien said:

"My candid opinion now is that the boy never woke up at any time during the assault and that the killer never saw the boy. Else why wouldn't the killer have struck Jimmy with the brick?"

"I believe now that the boy is too small and frail to have wielded the brick with sufficient force to split it in two."

Conway's analysis of the mirror message pointed to the fact that "lay-out and spacing is good," the C is made with two strokes, showing it was made by an experienced sign writer," the "O" was made in professional style, and concluded:

"The guy does sloppy work, but he'd done it before and plenty of it. Looks like butcher or grocery boy snuff to me. They acquire a style all their own. Restaurants and drug stores have them too."

Aside from that, police admitted themselves up against a blank wall.

MANY MOTORCADES FOR RIVERS CROWD

Gainesville Prepares for Thronged City as Speaker Opens Campaign.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 2.—Upwards of a score of motorcades from sections of the seventh, ninth and tenth congressional districts in addition to a large caravan from his home eighth district are expected here Saturday for the opening speech of his campaign for governor by Speaker E. D. Rivers of the house of representatives.

Cash Hammond, of Gainesville, chairman of the Hall county "Rivers for Governor" Club, which is sponsoring the speaker's opening address, said the city would have one of the largest crowds in its history here Saturday.

"We have received assurances from all over the state there will be delegations here from each of the 150 counties," Hammond said. "Gainesville and Hall county are set to put on a big show."

Judge Boyd Sloan, of the city court of Gainesville, will preside over the Rivers meeting. The radio program also calls for talks by Ernest Palmer, representing the city and Fred Keller, representing the county. To thank the people of Georgia for the aid given the city after its recent disaster.

Speaker Rivers will be introduced by Judge J. B. Jones.

Seeks Assembly Place

WILLIAM G. HASTINGS.

HASTINGS TO RUN FOR LEGISLATURE

Councilman Will Seek Place Vacated by William B. Hartsfield.

William Guy Hastings, for the last six years a member of council and well-known throughout the state as president of the Georgia Hotel Men's Association, yesterday announced his candidacy for the legislature, subject to the state primary, September 9.

Hastings is seeking the post vacated by William B. Hartsfield, who has entered the lists as a majority aspirant.

As one of the councilmen from the sixth ward, Hastings has served on various important committees of the city legislative body, and is chairman of the aviation committee.

"I shall announce my platform within the next few days," Hastings said yesterday. "I just wanted my friends to know definitely that I propose to seek one of the three legislative positions for which nominations will be made in the state primary."

OPPOSITION IS VOICED TO MILITARY TRAINING

National Education Body Indorses Proposed Federal Funds for Schools.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 2.—(AP)—Vigorous opposition to compulsory military training in public schools was voiced today by the National Education Association.

The educators, in convention adopted the report of a resolutions committee which opposed war, military training in academic restrictions.

The report urged repeal of the congressional restrictions against the teaching of communism in the District of Columbia schools and sought "full support of the tenure of position for teachers."

The educators pledged support of a congressional measure which would provide a maximum of $30,000,000 annually in federal funds to aid education and recommend a permanent federal division for youth education.

In their protest against compulsory military training the convention educators did not go so far as the resolutions committee had recommended. A phrase calling attention to the "tendency to militarize schools and colleges through increasing support and expansion of the reserve officers' training corps," was stricken from the original resolution before adoption.

Tonight the educators listened to a three-sided political debate participated in by democratic Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, former Representative, Burton L. French, of Idaho, a republican, and Norman Thomas, socialist presidential candidate.

The democratic platform does not retreat," said McNutt. "It does not make reckless promises."

"The republican party," French argued, "regards the constitution as the bulwark of American liberties, but it recognizes change."

Thomas declared "a world of poverty in the midst of potential abundance."

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 2.—(AP)—Peter Voiss, 72-year-old former prospector, was acquitted by a jury today of the slaying of Dr. Jasper Gattuccio, San Jose dentist.

The shooting occurred four weeks ago after the dentist had refused to pay 50 cents for the privilege of photographing the aged man and his burros.

W. E. Woodham, jury foreman, said the jurors believed the shooting was accidental as contended by Voiss.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Robinson Stars at Fox In 'Bullets or Ballots'

Edward G. Robinson returns to the screen in "Bullets or Ballots," a first National production which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Fox theater beginning today for a week's engagement.

Robinson's new role affords him all the opportunities for characterization that "Little Caesar," the picture that made him famous, gave him, but in this picture he is not a gangster. He is a hard-boiled detective determined to put the boldest and best organized band of criminals known to history out of business.

To do this he renounces both love and honor, at least temporarily, for he breaks with the police and ostensibly becomes a criminal himself in order to gather the evidence to break up a band of crooks so powerful that no one had ever been able to put the finger on them.

The story is by Martin Mooney, New York newspaperman, who exposed racketeering in the newspapers and was sent to jail for 30 days for contempt of court because he refused to divulge the source of his information. Seaton I. Miller collaborated with Mooney on the story and also wrote the screen play.

There is an unusually talented cast in the picture, with Robinson playing the feminine lead opposite Robinson.

Gable and MacDonald
Co-Stared at Grand

Combining Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald as a new romantic team, with a supporting cast which includes Spencer Tracy, Jack Holt and Ted Healy, "San Francisco," which comes today to Loew's Grand theater, evokes the drama and romance and the product of a very busy coast in the early years of the century. The story opens during the heyday of the notorious district, presenting Clark Gable as a blustering Barbary coast gambler with faith only in his own power and his charm over women. Jeanette MacDonald is the daughter of a wealthy English society girl, to remedy conditions in army field hospitals. All the tragedy and pathos of the battlefield is pictures in the film, as "San Francisco" portrays the sacrifice of Florence Nightingale and her specially picked nurses.

The film is set in the middle of the last century during the Crimean War, and the most thrilling scenes take place at the base hospital at Scutari, a small Turkish town on the north shore of the Bosphorus, and Balaklava, where the immortal 600 of the light brigade rode "into the jaws of death."

No more powerful nor romantic theme could have been selected. A First National than that of the life of the great nurse who gave her all to humanity by revolutionizing the hospital system of the world, and whose efforts laid the groundwork for the establishment of the Red Cross. The picture is enacted by an exceptionally talented cast of principals, with more than 1,000 persons in extra roles. Ian Hunter, famous on the London stage and in films, and Donald Woods have the two leading masculine roles.

Others in the cast include Nigel Bruce, Donald Crisp, Henry O'Neill, Billy Mauch, Charles Croker-King, Phoebe Foster, George Curzon, George Caine, Ara Gerald, Halliwell Hobbes, Eily Malyon, Lillian Cooper and Egon Brecher. William Dieterle directed the production from the screen play by Mordaunt Sharp.

Fight Pictures Moved To Capital on Sunday

The current program at the Capitol, "Call of the Sirens," starring William Board and special cast of the screen and "Sirens in Satin," offering eight acts of vaudeville on the stage, will play for two more days, as the Capitol does not make its weekly change of program until Sunday.

Starting Sunday, the Capitol will offer, in addition to the regular stage and screen program booked, the official Schmeling-Louis fight pictures.

The Capitol's scheduled feature to start Sunday will be "The Law in Her Hands," starring Margaret Lindsay, Glenda Farrell, Lyle Talbot and Marie Hall.

This picture offers for the first time on the screen an unusual story of two women lawyers. It is stated to be based on an actual experience of a woman who was the attorney for a gang of racketeers in a large metropolitan city.

The new stage show for Sunday is "Charlie Mack's Revue," which will bring to Atlanta a cast of 25 stage and radio stars who will present numerous acts of big-time vaudeville.

Tonight, as a special added stage offering, the Capitol will present another of its famous amateur contests, principally at 9 o'clock, with adults being featured. Three prizes are to be offered.

New Romantic Comedy On Screen at Rialto

Another Columbia smash hit, "And So They Were Married," opens its run at the Rialto theater today. With Melvyn Douglas and Mary Astor heading the adult portion of the cast, while Edith Fellows and Jackie Moran play two extremely important juvenile roles, the picture is one of those typical, fascinating every day romances made with that artistry and attention to detail for which Columbia has become famous.

The new picture was directed by Elliott Nugent, one of the forthcoming great directors of Hollywood, from a story by Sarah Addison, which was published in a popular national magazine recently.

It is the story of a widow and a widower, each with one child, who are each sure they hate all members of the opposite sex. They are involved in a minor motor accident and each blames the other. They are marooned by snow in a resort hotel, as the only guests, and grow more disgusted with each other's company.

Finally disgust turns to interest and they agree to marry. But the two children determine they don't want to be parents married and contrive, by sheer childish naughtiness, to bring about a quarrel and a breakup of the engagement.

Then, however, the children see the unhappiness of their parents and realize they have made a mistake and set out to rectify the error.

Manager W. T. Murray has some more of those excellent Rialto short subjects as added attractions for his new program.

Kay Francis Starred In 'The White Angel'

What is heralded as one of the outstanding productions of the screen, "The White Angel," portraying the life story of the immortal nurse, Florence Nightingale, comes to the Paramount theater today with Kay Francis in the stellar role.

The picture paints in fiery drama the fight of Florence Nightingale, a wealthy English society girl, to remedy conditions in army field hospitals. All the tragedy and pathos of the battlefield is pictures in the film, as "San Francisco" portrays the sacrifice of Florence Nightingale and her specially picked nurses.

The film is set in the middle of the last century during the Crimean War, and the most thrilling scenes take place at the base hospital at Scutari, a small Turkish town on the north shore of the Bosphorus, and Balaklava, where the immortal 600 of the light brigade rode "into the jaws of death."

Smoke Screens and Machine Guns Barred Rum-Runners by New Law

The federal government, which frowns on rum-running of an illicit nature, has added a few more creases to its frown.

It's just not cricket now for rum runners to carry sawed-off shotguns and machine guns or to equip their automobiles with smoke screens.

Sawed-off shotguns and machine guns maim persons when discharged directly at them and, in some instances, federal alcohol agents have been wounded right painfully by rum runners who resorted to these weapons in a chase where real sportsmanship should merely have made it a test of speed between two automobiles and may be the best one win.

These smoke screens have also been annoying to the pursuing officers. The smoke not only makes driving difficult for the pursuing car, District Supervisor Robert E. Tuttle of the alcohol tax unit explained yesterday, "it gets in your eyes and makes them sting."

So, Mr. Tuttle was broadcasting yesterday the passage by congress of a new law, affecting rum runners and still operators only.

It is now unlawful to an extent of a $5,000 fine and 10 years in prison for anyone to use a smoke screen in an attempt to avoid capture.

Anyone who has any firearm, except a machine gun, a shotgun or a rifle with a barrel of less than 18 inches in length, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned for not more than 10 years or both.

13 PERSONS ARE KILLED IN MERIDA LABOR ROW

President Cardenas Orders
Cabinet Member To Make an Investigation.

MERIDA, Yucatan, July 2.—(AP)—Scattered street fighting was reported tonight as organized labor's indignation ran high following yesterday's rioting in which police killed 13 and wounded 51 in a strike demonstration.

The repressive rifles of federal troops guarded the city's peace as the government began an investigation into the deaths of 12 farmers and laborers and a physician who were in the crowd of striking bus drivers demonstrating before the palace of Governor Fernando Lopez Cardenas.

Police Inspector Leopoldo Espinosa was suspended and Major Pedro Larios named to replace him.

Saloons were closed to aid in restoring order.

President Lazaro Cardenas in Mexico City ordered Agustin Arroyo, under-secretary of the interior, to fly to Merida to conduct the inquiry.

Governor Lopez Cardenas prepared to fly to Mexico City and give an explanation of the affair to the president.

The governor, blamed by labor leaders for the resulting demonstration because of his alleged non-enforcement of labor contracts, sought an "indefinite leave" of the legislature, but observers expressed the opinion the bitterness engendered by the tragedy would make it "impossible" for him to return to office.

Federal soldiers disarmed the police and took charge late last night after the killings.

The demonstration began with mass meeting after the striking bus drivers, along with some taxicab drivers, blocked traffic in downtown Merida.

The participants marched to the governor's palace in protest against non-enforcement of the labor contracts which were drawn in May with the assistance of the governor.

Selected by Committee

CAPT. GEORGE L. HARRISON.

CAPT. HARRISON URGED FOR TECHWOOD PLACE

Well-Known Atlantan Unanimously Recommended by Advisory Board.

The Techwood advisory committee at its meeting yesterday afternoon recommended Captain George L. Harrison for appointment as manager of the new Techwood project.

Formal notice was forwarded last night to Secretary of the Interior James H. McLaughlin, and to the Board of Directors of the Federal Housing Administration.

It will be recalled that Secretary McLaughlin requested that someone of practical real estate experience be appointed to this position and asked the committee for a recommendation accordingly.

The committee has been investigating the matter for the past few weeks and unanimously agreed yesterday to recommend Captain Harrison, who, since the end of the World War, has been engaged in real estate management in Atlanta.

Captain Harrison is a veteran of the World War, having served as captain of infantry in France with the 82nd division. He was severely wounded in France, having one of his arms shot through by a cannon ball, taking away six inches of the bone.

He was given emergency treatment at once in France and upon his return home after demobilization he was sent to the Walter Reed hospital where a part of his leg bone was grafted into his arm, the grafted bone completely knitting with the broken parts of the arm bone.

Captain Harrison is a son of the late J. Lawrence Harrison, of Atlanta, and a grandson of the late John H. McLaughlin, a pioneer resident of Atlanta and for many years president of the Atlanta Gas Light Company.

With which he became identified soon after the Civil War and which was greatly enlarged and expanded during his administration.

Captain Harrison is universally popular in Atlanta, and the Techwood committee reported him as ideally equipped for the position.

C. E. CAIN SUCUMBES
TO CRASH INJURIES

Ex-Service Man Is 33d Traffic Victim of City in 1936.

Atlanta's traffic accident death list was swelled yesterday with the death of C. E. Cain, 42-year-old ex-service man of 142 Fair street, who died at Grady hospital from injuries received in an accident June 20.

According to police reports, Cain struck the rear end of a street car on Fair street near Cherokee avenue. J. C. Cochran, of Egan Park, was the operator of the trolley. Cain was thought to be suffering from a superficial head injury when admitted to Grady hospital, but further examination disclosed he received a fractured skull in the accident.

Cain's death marks the 33rd traffic accident fatality of the year within the city limits of Atlanta and the first for the month of July. The two previous months accounted for a total of 11 accident deaths, nine in May and two in June.

The body of the latest victim was taken to Buford for funeral services and burial.

OFFICIALS PROMOTED
BY EASTERN AIR LINES

Promotion of E. L. Shannon to succeed C. W. France as operations manager of Eastern Air Lines, and of George E. Gardner, for the past year and a half superintendent of the western division, with headquarters in Atlanta, to assistant operations manager, was announced yesterday.

Mr. France's resignation was announced recently at a dinner given in his honor in Miami by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, general manager. The official resigned to become vice president and general manager of the Curtis-Wright Airplane Company plant at Robertson, Mo.

Mr. Shannon, formerly superintendent of the northern and eastern division of the air lines, will supervise the entire system, including the New York-to-Miami, New York-to-New Orleans and the Chicago-to-Miami routes. Headquarters will be set up at Miami and at the Newark airport.

Before his affiliation with the air line, Mr. Gardner was associated with the federal department of commerce.

LEHMAN TO OFFER AGAIN

The best-posted political observers in New York are definite in their conclusion that the decision of Governor Lehman to offer for re-election removes whatever doubt that the state will go democratic next fall, both in the state and national elections.

It was to be expected that the republicans would greet the efforts to induce Governor Lehman to offer again with the charge that they reflected the belief by democratic leaders that the state was "lost to Roosevelt" if a strong candidate for governor was not presented.

These republican propagandists overlook the fact that when Roosevelt made the race for governor at the urgent request of Al Smith, he piled up an unprecedented democratic majority while the state went against Smith for president.

The bearing of that election on the ones to be held this fall is the more important in that the anti-Roosevelt forces are basing their hope of taking New York away from the democrats with the aid of Smith.

Governor Smith has lost the strong appeal he once had with the mass of the voters of the state. This support has been transferred to the President and to Governor Lehman, under whose administration the state government has prospered and who has a personal following greater than that of Smith's at this peak.

There is no possibility that Smith and his co-disseminators of the American Liberty League can wear enough of the democratic strength of the state away from Lehman and Roosevelt to bring about the election of a republican governor or put the state in the republican column in the national election.

WORN-OUT LAND.

We hear and read considerable about "worn-out" land in the United States, and if we are a bit skeptical about the matter, a survey of several of the southeastern states from an automobile, while riding on a smooth highway, will convince any one that the bounties of nature are being misused by the owners of many farms.

When we consider that few farms in the United States have been growing crops over one hundred years, while acreages in Europe have been under cultivation since before the Christian era, it would appear that those people have a system of soil conservation that should concern us much more than any of the national differences that threaten or eventuate in war.

It has been brought to the attention of the Italian government that Giuseppe Pierantoni is operating the same farm which for 918 years has been handed down from father to son in his family. Records show that in the year 1018, when barbarians were over-running the peninsula of Italy, a peasant named Pierantoni reclaimed a plot of marshy land in Montelabate, which has remained with and been cultivated by his family ever since.

In another instance last year a prize was given to Antonio Gastellani, who surrounded by his 19 children and grandchildren, was proved to be working land which his ancestors had cultivated for 709 years.

When it is considered that Italy has a population of around 41,000,000 (about one-third that of the United States), confined in a territory about the size of California, it is obvious that farms are small. However, despite the small acreages of their farms Italian farmers have large families and appear to be able to prosper, even better than some of our southern farmers.

We are slow to give any European national credit for being our equal in anything, but it would appear that they could teach us something about soil conservation and acreage production.

TENNESSEE MUST ACT

For the good name of the state, the Tennessee government should act swiftly and thoroughly to ascertain the facts surrounding the conduct of the state reform school, where conditions of almost unbelievable brutality are charged to exist by a Nashville grand jury.

According to the grand jury report, burly guards at the school have beaten young boys with whips until they have prayed for death; have knocked down other youngsters and ground their faces in the earth, and administered such severe punishment in still other instances that bed clothes stuck to the bleeding backs of the little victims.

Admitting that most boys committed to reform schools are incorrigible and difficult to handle, there is no possible excuse for their being submitted to cruel and inhuman treatment, and if it is established that the charges of the grand jury are true, those responsible should be made to suffer the full penalty of the law.

It is further charged that the superintendent and his staff are in the habit of indulging in liquor parties on the grounds of the institution. It is an offense against public decency that the control of young boys should be placed in the hands of drunken and brutal men.

There will be universal approval of the immediate steps being taken by Governor McAlister to clear up a situation that is a discredit to the state and repulsive to every person of decent instincts. The mere resignation of the superintendent is woefully insufficient.

JOHN D. TAYLOR

Georgia loses an outstanding citizen in the death of John D. Taylor, of Summerville, for many years a captain of industry in northwest Georgia.

Long identified with the ownership of the Summerville Cotton Mills, Mr. Taylor was the active head of this outstanding Georgia industry until stricken with the illness which caused his death.

He had the unbounded esteem of his employees, and in good times or bad none of the hundreds of men and women who worked for him were permitted to waver.

Mr. Taylor was held in high regard, not only in his community, but throughout the state. He served with distinction in the state senate as the representative of his district.

He was a businessman of outstanding ability, was the soul of honor, and his life was marked by devotion to the highest principles. His death is a serious loss to his community, and will be received with deep regret by his many friends throughout the state.

"BUGS" WON'T AMALGAMATE

Prospects of Representative Lemke's personally conducted union party receiving the support and being consolidated with late Huey Long's share-the-wealth organization, Dr. Townsend's old-age-$200-a-month pension outfit, and Father Coughlin's national union for social justice, are not so rosy as they were a short time back when the North Dakota congressman announced his candidacy for president and asserted that he was not worried about the financial end of conducting a campaign.

Leaders of the three Utopian projects held conferences with Lemke and endorsed his plan of attempting to harass the democratic and republican parties, but when it came to blending all of the "bug" projects into one harmonious declaration of Utopianism, divergent opinions developed which promise to wreck amalgamation.

Lemke, Smith, Townsend and Coughlin each think that their panaceas for the amelioration of human vicissitudes is the "real McCoy," and while some of the others might help, theirs must have first attention. Doubtless Upton Sinclair would insist that his EPIC plan is superior to all the others, if he were invited to co-operate in ending all our economic troubles here below.

Neither the socialists nor communists think much of the several economic panaceas, for they have gone ahead and nominated national tickets. So, after all, the presidential campaign will be the same old fight between the democrats and republicans, with the former assured of success.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Arrival In Spain.

To make sure that I would not miss the spectacle of the charred and ruined churches and convents of which I had read so much, I traveled the distance from the French border to Madrid in daylight and had, moreover, taken along the old faithful binoculars, which bagged up in a German dugout on the front long ago, and which had looked upon the harrowing scenes of the Spanish civil war, warriors retreating before Badoglio's death-sweeping vultures of steel. I did not see any burnt churches, so far.

What I did see was a land of fertile fields, meadows of astounding green, luscious vineyards, rice fields, coal, copper, zinc, lead and mercury mines, natural gas, and a host of strapping men, beautiful women and fine looking children dressed in worsted suits, living in caverns and feeding on the bark of trees. It was not the first time in my life that I saw little children being fed on boiled roots, but in the past there had always been a famine, there is no famine in Spain. I needed no binoculars to see that there is abundance here.

The railway platform in Madrid broken up for repairs, the porter carried me through the first-class dining hall. It was filled with a fashionable crowd. I heaved a sigh of relief when I stepped among the Spaniards, who were seated at tables, and I saw a waiter in a white coat and a black bow tie, who was serving a bottle of wine. The last newspaper I had picked up in the French side of the border, among the Spaniards, was a horrible recital of priests massacred, nuns violated and monks driven forth into the night, while the vessels of the pope were said to have been broken up in little fragments to make necklaces for cigarette girls and the sweets of the popular frontiers. Here, I thought, I passed the ecclesiastical dinner, at least one padre who has escaped that holocaust. I was to see others as time went on and even that was not true. Not a single one complained of having been molested personally.

In Salamanca, where I visited Don Miguel de Unamuno, the rector of the university, one of the most great of the Spaniards, the posters were covered with posters proclaiming in letters the size of sewing machines: "Long live God, Death to Azana." Senor Azana is the president of the republic. Under the big letters I deciphered the following notice, which I wrote down for your information: "Chanelled Hitler and his cohorts, new truth: there are no more vassals. But Spain is no longer the land of honor and freedom like Italy. Spain has become a land of slaves and the European is not going to stand by idly, differently until a bolshevik revolution, which some bandits are preparing since 1931, is consummated. Europe will step in and intervene in Russia again. Europe is not going to live between two bolshevik claws, the one in the east and the other in Spain. Long live God, Death to Azana!"

They say that there is a censorship in Spain, but that poster pretty well said what I wanted to say. I walked away after reading it, puzzling over the name of goodness can be going to do that step-in act in Spain. Leon Blum? The blacksmith from the town of Lorraine? Or maybe the almighty godfathers of Portugal, our former gallant allies? Not till I had gone a hundred yards or so did I realize that the poster was the army itself—both of them. I knew friends of mine: Ferdinand and Frederic, the two must be the interventionists, nobody else in Europe has the ambition and the leisure. (Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

WHEN HE SAW JESUS.

Dr. John H. Sampey, of Louisville, Ky., president of the Southern Baptist convention and for 31 years a teacher in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, was passing through Atlanta on Monday of this week and was invited to address the Baptist ministers of the city. His text was the first verse of the second chapter of the Acts—a really great sermon on the work of the Holy Spirit in yielding, willing, believing hearts.

Illustrative of one of the points in his sermon, President Sampey told this beautiful and helpful story. A minister was preaching in Tennessee from the text, "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty," Isaiah 33:17. The preacher was empowered by the Holy Spirit as he preached that morning. A lad of 14 years, who had been a member of the church for some time, was sitting in the front row. He was a quiet, unassuming boy, but when the preacher spoke of the Lord to this lad in the pew.

When the lad went home, his mother, who had remained at home that morning to prepare dinner for the family, said, "Son, was Aunt Mary at church today?" "The lad replied, 'Mother, if she was there, I did not see her.' 'Was Aunt Susan there?' 'Mother, she may have been there, but I did not see him.' The mother, knowing her son's usual aptitude for quick recognition of faces and his ability to report accurately the incidents of a given occasion, said: "Son, where were your eyes this morning?" "Mother, I listened to the minister this morning as he preached about Jesus. I never heard him preach like that before. Mother, he told us about Jesus, and I saw Him—I saw Him in His beauty—I saw Him in His gift of Himself for me. Mother, I accept Jesus as my Savior and I intend to follow Him through all my days as my Lord."

"Open my eyes, that I may see; Glorify my heart, that I may love; Open my heart, that I may prepare; Love with Thee children thus to share."

Fixing A Balking Motor.
Flossie told this story. She is, you old car to go for a ride in the country, last Sunday. And the motor would not start. He worked and he worked and he worked on it. For hours. Without result.

Then he lost his temper, snatched a pistol from his coat pocket and fired straight into the obstinate motor. The motor started at the moment and they had to take it to a repair shop. But after the repair man had extracted the bullet and fixed a wire connection or two, it started and ran ever since, better than in years.

"But," says Flossie, "he shot his car high!"

D'Ver Pitch Horseshoes?

There seems to be a resurrection of that ancient and noble pastime of horseshoe pitching. Within the last day or two I've noticed several places where men and boys were having lots of fun tossing for the elusive ring. There are few competitive sports that are more fun than this. The reason, perhaps, is that it looks so simple and the player is constantly convinced that all needed to become perfect is practice. Lots of players never improve, no matter how hard they try and how many hours of practice they put in. There is a reason for this. The horseshoe pitching that the outsider would believe. Not only the height, direction and distance of the pitch, but the shoe connection or two, it started and ran ever since, better than in years.

Home Sweet Home.

Mother: Jackie come here, I have some good news for you.
Jackie: I know, dad's home again.
Mother: Who told you?
Jackie: I just know because my bank doesn't rattle any more.

THE NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.
CURTAILING WASHINGTON, July 2.—Only persons with unusually long memories will recall that congressional leaders started this last session of congress with a promise to cut down on spending. One particular house leader went to Warm Springs and announced the formation of an economy bloc. He said it would rebuke against the New Deal expenditures program.

The results of the rebellion were announced the other day by this very same leader, who, however, neglected to recall his prophecy made six months earlier. The reason for his neglect is the fact that his tabulation showed:

Appropriations by this congress, $10,338,938,839.
Appropriations by previous congress, $10,337,937,000.
Curtailed accomplished, minus $265,568,839.

PROGRESS The way curtailment has progressed, in reverse, may be traced from the beginning in these estimates by Chairman Buchanan, of the house appropriations committee. His figures indicate that the first congressional session of President Roosevelt's administration appropriated $4,600,000,000. The next session jumped the total to $8,700,000,000; the third to $9,500,000,000 (not including the stabilization fund), and then the last two to $10,073,000,000 and $10,338,000,000.

The failure to show any net economies this time is blamed on the soldier bonus, which carried $2,249,000,000. Also, there was an appropriation of about $300,000,000 to pay off AAA contracts. In other words, about $2,500,000,000 will not be recurring next year. However, there will be other things to take the places of these, such as, for instance, the figures for the military, at last, that Mr. Roosevelt's expenditures in this campaign year will probably be greater than last year.

CONSTITUTIONALIZING It passed unnoticed in the adjournment excitement, but just a few hours before congress closed, a bill was slipped through hurriedly, authorizing the Rural Resettlement Administration to make tax payments to local taxing authorities.

It means Professor Tugwell's boys are now going to pay out to affected communities sums equivalent to lost taxes. This sounded like a big-hearted and judicious move when proposed in the senate by Senator Black four hours before adjournment. The republicans thought so, and let the bill go through.

Nobody mentioned the real reason behind it in the debate, namely, that the resettling lawyers are worried about that adverse decision in the Bound Brook case. They are trying to constitutionalize their law before it gets to the supreme court.

(Note: Professor Tugwell's lawyers did not act a moment too soon. They have not found it out yet, but they will have another suit on their hands shortly. A prominent local lawyer now is being solicited by private clients to institute suit against another of the five big resettling projects.)

SEVEN-ELEVEN Mr. Roosevelt thinks his lucky number is seven. He was graduated from law school and started the practice of law in 1907. He was married on March 17, resigned as New York state senator to become assistant secretary of navy on March 17 and accepted renomination of June 27 for the term beginning in 1937.

PAIN The smartest one of the democratic estimators has written off the Lemke third-party movement at a book loss of 4,250,000 votes. Ordinarily this would not be worth considering, but the trouble is Lemke will get nearly all of them in six states, North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio and Massachusetts.

The question is whether these defections will be sufficient to let Landon carry those states. It is a very serious question from the viewpoint of the democratic high command.

CROWDING The new union party has put the serious third-party advocates in a hole. As you know, Governor Olson, Phil La Follette and others have talked of a third party to be launched "at Mr. Roosevelt."

The union party, by entering the election this year, will be virtually assured of a place on the ballot in most of the states in 1940. If the La Follette groups try to get into the picture then, they will find the third party seat already taken. They are troubled about it.

The general viewpoint hereabouts is that the Lemkitians outsmarted them.

RENUNCIATION? Do not be surprised if Mr. Roosevelt stops the third-term talk during the campaign by resurrecting and personally adopting the democratic platform plank of 1912—the year he first attracted the eye of Joseph Daniels, who started him on the road to political fame through the Navy Department. This plank reads:

"We favor a single presidential term, and to that end we urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election."

(Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon.)

Keep On Working
Three days ago a rhyme at the head of this column attested to a determination not to work while it is "too blamed hot." Comes a postcard from Alpharetta:

"You know, I should be out on the farm saying Gee Haw, and getting the benefit of the hot, or swingin' a hoe—not a dry thread on my back. I carried it to shore when we read the poetry 'Blamed Hot.' A young lady, a friend and myself all stopped to laugh. The girl carried the verse as she was talking the paper and yet better keep on working, Man Friend."

Fish Was Hungry.
A twelve-year-old girl, swimming in a Florida river, felt something nibbling at the metal buckle of her swimming suit. She grabbed the something and carried it to shore.

It was a three-pound bass. But it would never do to go shark fishing on the same plan.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.
From The Constitution of Monday, July 3, 1911:
"General Clement A. Evans, former commander of the United Confederate Veterans, and member of the prison commission of Georgia, died at 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his residence, 167 Capitol avenue."

And Fifty Years Ago.
From The Constitution of Saturday, July 3, 1886:
"The ginhouse of Mr. Mope Arnold, near Crawford, was struck by lightning last Sunday afternoon, and catching fire, was entirely destroyed."

A Mouthful.

A woman who was having a house built detected one of the bricklayers halving the brick with his trowel. With a triumphant gleam in her eyes she approached him swiftly and said, "Isn't that rather a primitive way of cutting a brick in half?"

The man looked up, smiled and said: "Lor bless yer dear heart, lady, there's a far more primitive way than that, here me now."

"Really, and what's that?" she inquired.

"Biting it, lady, biting it."

The Kid Doesn't Obey a Person

Who Can't Spank
BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

The lot of a congressman is not a pleasant one if he happens to be proud and independent.

In other days, when there were giants in the lower house, a representative was a statesman. He represented his people, but he had no master. He did the thing that seemed best for his nation and section, and mere citizens could cheer or grumble as they saw fit.

But big business and politics soon made an alliance, and congressmen began to take orders.

When great industrialists feared certain legislation, their spokesmen made the proper appeal to the boss of the party in power. The boss then told congressmen how to vote if they wished to retain the party's support. And the congressmen obeyed orders, for "party loyalty" meant bread and butter.

That arrangement was hateful to one-gallus citizens who believed in government by the people, and there was constant demand for a change, but the new arrangement has made the lot of congressmen no happier.

Members of the last congress received orders of a new kind. From the White House came the word: "This is 'must' legislation. Pass it. Pass it without taking time to study it, and in spite of the fact that you regard it as unconstitutional."

Again the congressmen obeyed, for an emergency required quick action. And there was the matter of party loyalty, which enabled a proud man to obey without loss of dignity.

But this was not the end. When "labor legislation" needed support, congressmen received telegrams from President Green, of the A. F. of L., saying: "We expect you to do this and so. If you do not, we shall consider you unfriendly to labor. Our men are watching you. Do not fail us."

What is the moral? The moral is the ancient one that in union there is strength.

The Anti-Saloon League demonstrated that congressmen can be dominated by an organization that represents many votes. The veterans proved it.

Denounce the system if you will, but the fact remains that those who desire favors must get together in an organization that represents enough votes to command respect.

HEALTH TALKS

Hollywood Today

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Several years ago a correspondent or two reported apparent healing of chronic leg ulcer (varicose ulcer, I assumed) after a few weeks of iodine radiation. I expressed incredulity. A medical colleague assured me that he, and his father before him, had always administered iodine internally to patients with chronic leg ulcer and regarded it as a curative remedy. The doctor suggested that the iodine improved the function of the thyroid gland, and that thyroid deficiency was a factor of the leg ulcer or an explanation for the difficulty of healing in such cases.

Now comes Dr. Milton H. Cohen with a contribution published in the U. S. M. A. under the title "Leg Ulcers Due to Thyroid Dysfunction." Dysfunction, friends, need not scare anybody. It is just medical jargon for poor function of the thyroid, that is, not enough thyroid secreted by the gland. Dr. Cohen cites among other cases one reported by Dr. Norman J. Kilbourne of Los Angeles, an enormous leg ulcer of 17 years' duration completely healed in 10 weeks after the daily use of thyroid hormone, and reports another case of his own in which thyroid feeding brought about healing in a few weeks, of leg ulcers that had resisted other treatment for six years.

Leg ulcers associated with general or localized areas of myxedema seem to be most amenable to thyroid or iodine treatment. Myxedema is the characteristic of a disease called cretinism, not pitting on pressure, that occurs in hypothyroidism. Along with it are certain other characteristic signs, notably dryness and loss of hair, absence or thinness of outer thirds of eyebrows, complaint of feeling cold under conditions which are comfortable or even too warm for normal persons, general hebetude, drowsiness, indisposition to work or play, inability to be happy, perhaps a tendency toward melancholia.

Three o'clock. Time out for a dozen rolls. Takes about 45 seconds. Silly habit, but keeps a fellow young. Time may well be invested. The nails, by the way, may show evidence of poor thyroid function too. They are short, brittle and striated.

I do not think it safe or wise for any one to take thyroid in any circumstances except under medical supervision.

But I do think it is safe and wise for every one who is not under medical care to take a suitable iodine containing a suitable iodine ration. In these instructions I say:

"Adults may not show goiter as a manifestation of iodine shortage, but instead a chronic feeling of fatigue and lack of usual or former ambitions, energy or pep, with little refreshment from rest or a vacation, a tendency toward accumulation of fatty excess weight, depression of spirits or melancholia, premature aging, graying and falling of hair, poor circulation (cold hands and feet), mental torpor."

There, I reckon that will cover half the ill flesh is heir to. And I do hope the mental torpor is not so deep that you forget to inclose the stamped envelope with your address on it—the name of your town, not "City" or "Local" as so many mentally torpid folk do.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Epileptics.
Have a friend 80 years old who has had treatment (X-ray) that healed it up. Now it has broken out again. What would you advise? . . . (T. L.)

Answer—Don't be angry—I would advise that he consult a physician. (Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

Talmudic Tales
BY DAVID MORANTZ.
Number 355.

ALEXANDER JANNAI, king of Judea, became very ill in his private tent behind the battle lines, while the king and his army were attacking the fortress of Ragaba, and he sent his trusted attendant, Simon, to bring his wife, Queen Salome, to him.

If I should die before the fortress of Ragaba is captured, he said to her, "Keep my death a secret so the soldiers will not lose heart. You have been a wise and dutiful wife and I shall leave my kingdom in your capable hands."

He then called in Simon, his trusted attendant, and after a few brief words of instructions, he breathed his last. Shortly thereafter, a messenger from the battlefield came to the outer entrance of the tent with a messenger from the king and announced his arrival in the usual manner.

The queen following out the king's instructions, restrained her grief and said to Simon: "Go out and bring the message to me and let no one know of the king's death until I so instruct you."

The faithful attendant brought in the message, which was from one of the officers reporting on their progress and asking for further instructions as to how to proceed with the siege.

The queen studied the report carefully and wrote out instructions for the further guidance of the officers. These she handed to Simon, who delivered them to the messenger, saying: "Here are your orders."

1,000-Plane Air Base in Alaska Planned To Strengthen Defenses

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—First steps looking toward the establishment of an aviation base in Alaska capable of accommodating 1,000 planes, were taken today by the army when General Malin Craig, chief of staff, announced the selection of a three-member board to select a site. The move was described at the War Department as a partial execution of the Wilcox act, which authorized the setting up of aviation bases at strategic points throughout the country. Sites for others have yet to be announced.

In his order, General Craig directed that the base would be in the vicinity of Fairbanks. He stated that the board will be given "the layout plans of the installations desired and such detailed instructions as may be desired."

Beyond that the cryptic order gave no details. Spokesmen for the high command declared, however, that the Alaska base will be an extension of a main base to be set up in the northwest at a point not yet chosen.

The expectation that it will be somewhere north of Salt Lake City was expressed.

Officers said construction of the other bases will be carried out in order so that in the event of a mistake in the erection of any one it will not be repeated.

The board consists of Lieutenant Colonel Wilcox, Danielson, quartermaster corps; Major Otto G. Trunk, air corps; and Major Albro L. Parsons, air corps.

BODIES OF 2 NEGROES FOUND NEAR BAXLEY

BAXLEY, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—Two unidentified negroes, one man and one woman, were found shot to death on a roadside ditch two miles from Baxley today.

Officers said they apparently had been shot elsewhere and their bodies brought to the spot. The man had one pistol shot through the head; the woman two in the body.

Coroner W. R. Beasley said a coroner's jury found a verdict they came to their deaths at the hands of a person or persons, unknown.

A negro woman who operates a restaurant testified at the coroner's inquiry that her couple and a negro man ate there last night. The automobile in which the man and woman rode into town has not been found.

Sheriff H. L. Padgett said he reported the case to Jacksonville (Fla.) officers after finding a Florida automobile license, issued to John Clarence Wright, in the pocket of the dead man.

HEALTH NEEDS TOLD AT ATHENS CONCLAVE

ATHENS, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—The cost of tolerating an unhealthy condition in any community is greater than that of solving the problem through an organized health department.

P. H. Minchew, president of the Medical Association of Georgia, said today.

Dr. Minchew in one of the closing addresses of the University of Georgia Institute of Public Affairs, said the Ellis health law will enable health conditions to be improved but that citizens must be interested.

He said many people are skeptical of the fine ideals of the medical profession in advocating the control of preventable diseases, in the belief physicians thrive on epidemics and unhealthy communities.

Dr. W. W. Young, of Atlanta, advocated a mental hygiene program for Georgia, and called the state's commitment laws for mental patients "archaic."

GEORGIANS URGED TO GROW LIVESTOCK

$40,000,000 Could Be Added to Farm Income Annually, Experts Say.

ATHENS, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—Expansion of livestock production in Georgia to add "a minimum of $40,000,000" to the state's annual farm income was recommended today by a group of university system experts.

"Livestock represents the greatest deficiency in the farm program of Georgia," the experts said following a study of the situation.

"At the present time, we are importing 65 per cent of the beef and veal we consume within the state; 85 per cent of the lamb; 65 per cent of the pork and lard; at least 40 per cent of the dairy products; 40 per cent of the poultry and eggs, and practically all of our work stock," the report said.

"From an economic as well as an agricultural point of view, it would seem desirable to expand the livestock program to the place where the state Georgia might be at least self-sustaining."

$40,000,000 Added Income.

"If this can be done, we will add a minimum of $40,000,000 to the annual income, conserve the soil, and ultimately reduce the cost of growing crops through the production of increased yields per acre."

"Whether or not this can be done depends upon our ability to produce livestock economically as it can be produced in these sections of the United States where it is now the major source of income. There is in this connection one very significant factor to be remembered, namely, that a farmer competes not so much with his neighbors but with the best farmers in the nation producing the same commodity, regardless of where they may live."

Conceding that the federal soil conservation program would encourage livestock production in other states, the experts said:

"At the same time, the unfavorable situation with respect to cotton and the further possibilities that the cotton picking machine will increase the advantages of the western states leaves us no alternative in Georgia but to look for other means of increasing our income."

The report said livestock growing requires more capital than cotton farming and said "our ability to be self-sustaining in the matter of livestock production will depend upon whether or not we can produce large quantities of cheap feed."

It recommended that "we should not get out of the business as prices for livestock fluctuate. A sane system of farming requires the production of livestock production as a method of marketing these crops."

State-Wide Field.

The experts said beef cattle production "is adapted to all sections of the state. The abundance of cotton seed meal, the good pastures obtainable for feed, and the relatively low prices on fattening feeds in the southern section" should encourage increased raising of livestock.

They added there "is little or no chance of an over-expansion of pork production in Georgia, and that prices should 'have kept safe most of the records, but M. C. King Jr., member of the board of roads and revenues, said two months' work of the tax equalization board and six months' work of the WPA installing a filing system, had gone up in smoke."

King said the building, a two-story brick erected in 1907 at a cost of $30,000, was insured for $20,000.

Plans are being made, he said, to seek WPA aid for immediate rebuilding.

MELON HOLIDAY

Shipments Stopped Today Through Sunday.

ALBANY, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—A holiday on shipments of watermelons from Georgia will be in effect from 6 a. m. Friday through 6 a. m. Sunday.

Cool weather in eastern markets bringing about reduced sales and lowered prices was given as the reason.

F. D. R.'S GEORGIA CROP IS STRUCK BY DROUTH

Long Absence of Rainfall Deals Knockout Blow to Hopes of Big Yield.

By KENNETH GREGORY, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—Even President Roosevelt's 2,500-acre Georgia farm is drouth-stricken. Prolonged absence of rainfall on the Pine Mountain farming lands of the chief executive has dealt a knockout blow to hopes of productive crops. It is the worst drouth in this section in years.

The last time rain drenched the farm President Roosevelt was in Warm Springs. His special train had paused here April 8 on his return to Washington from a vacation fishing trip off the Florida coast.

"It's bad on the farm," said Otis Moore, superintendent of the President's place, pointing to the dried fields and withering knee-high corn that should be waving over one's head at this time of year.

"I don't know how it will turn out. The way it looks now we'll be lucky to make one-fifth of a crop. We're going to lose a lot of money."

Grazing pastures for the herd of 125 cattle are burned to a crisp. The broiling sun has stunted the growth of 50 acres of corn—the only crop planted before the dry weather forced a virtual halt.

"Look at those pastures," said the broad-shouldered farm superintendent. "There's as much grass on them as there is in the middle of a paved road. It's bad everywhere. See how that corn is withering and drying up?"

The President and his Georgia neighbors, who well sympathize with one another, for they are suffering, too, along with farmers in other sections of the south.

Although no cotton is grown on the President's farm, Moore said the crop is far retarded in this area. Looking toward a neighbor's acres across the road, he pointed to stalks up only a few inches, remarking "That ought to be nearly waist high by now."

Some wells at the farmhouses are dry, which is not unusual for the summer months, but there is no shortage of water for the livestock. Numerous springs in the side of Pine mountain feed streams into the pastures.

"These have never dried up," Moore said. "If they do then we'll really have a serious situation."

TALLAPOOSA, Ga., July 2.—(AP). Smith Sr., 93, died here yesterday from injuries sustained by a fall. He was the oldest Confederate veteran in this part of the state.

He is survived by three sons and two daughters and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held today and interment was in Poplar Springs cemetery in Carroll county.

REVENUE BUREAU JOB IS SEEN FOR GEORGIAN

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP)—Senator George, of Georgia, said today Miss Annabell Mathews, Gainesville, would be appointed a member of the reviewing board of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

until Saturday for him to declare himself.

New Question Arises.
So the question before the people yesterday was not "what is Talmadge going to do?" but "what are Howell and Nix going to do?"

The marked activity of leading Talmadge supporters in talking Redwine's candidacy seemed to remove the last shadow of a doubt over Talmadge's own future. The Talmadge people and the Howell people all seemed agreed the battle was on.

As for Nix little definite could be learned. The Athens lawyer and Masonic leader has one of the largest personal followings in the state and this following is known to be urging him to enter the senate race. His supporters point out that his place as grand master of the Masonic lodge in Georgia might be a barrier to his running for governor but they feel he could, with grace, make a race for the senate.

Nix Busy on Phone.
Nix was in telephone conference with a number of his leaders during the day but if anything definite has been agreed upon it was not announced.

The name of former Congressman William Schley Howard was heard in the senate race discussions yesterday but Howard quickly spiked the tale. "I want nothing, and little of that," the veteran Atlanta lawyer declared. And that was that.

As has been the case before, actual developments of yesterday were in the races for secondary offices.

One development of the day was the formal qualification of Solicitor General W. Y. Atkinson, of the Coweta circuit, for re-election to the post he now holds, thus definitely eliminating him as a gubernatorial possibility. There were many observers in the state who felt Atkinson would have made the strongest possible candidate for attorney general but he chose to take his old post. He is not expected to have opposition for his present office. The Newman man is one of the state's outstanding writers and he is expected to be heard from in future statewide campaigns.

Johns Seeks Re-election.
Another development of the day was the qualification of Chairman G. H. Johns, of the prison commission, for re-election to the post he now holds. Judge Johns has no announced opposition.

A race for the prison commission seat of the late Judge E. L. Rainey was assured when R. K. Mann, of Gay, qualified to make the race against Judge Rainey's son, Clem, who is serving by appointment of the Governor.

Another development during the day was the qualification of Senator J. Ellis Pope, of Lyons, as a candidate for lieutenant governor. Senator Pope will be opposed by DeLacey Allen, of Albany, who had previously qualified.

Simmons Out of Race.
Senator J. M. Simmons, of Bainbridge, announced during the day he would not be a candidate for lieutenant governor. Senator Simmons said he was not making the race because he had become convinced the amendment creating the office of lieutenant governor will be defeated.

"I received widespread assurances of support of my candidacy in the primary but a great majority of the people who said they would vote for me added that in the general election they would vote to kill the amendment," Senator Simmons said. "I did not want to be elected to an office that would not exist."

The senator added he planned to run for the house of representatives from his home county of Decatur.

Other Qualifiers.
Others who qualified during the day included:

James A. Perry, of Lawrenceville, for the public service commission against the incumbent, Ben T. Huet; C. D. Rountree, of Wrightsville, already has qualified for this race. Perry is a former chairman of the public service commission.

J. H. Paschall, of Calhoun, for solicitor general of the Cherokee circuit against John Mitchell, of Dalton. It had been reported that Paschall, a former state senator, would enter the superior court judgeship race in his circuit and his qualifying against Mitchell was somewhat of a surprise.

C. S. Baldwin Jr., of Madison, to succeed himself as solicitor general of the Ocmulgee circuit.

Frank Simpson for solicitor general of the Piedmont circuit in opposition to the incumbent, J. Clifford Pratt.

Judge John Rourke, Jr., and Solicitor General Sam Cann to succeed themselves on the eastern circuit.

C. W. Monk for judge of the Tifton superior court in opposition to Judge R. Eves.

LARSEN, AT DAHLONEGA, CRITICIZES FORTSON

DAHLONEGA, Ga., July 2.—Speaking before a crowd that filled the Lumpkin county courtroom here this afternoon, Wash. Larsen, former member of the United States congress and candidate for governor in the democratic primary, lashed out at Blanton Fortson and his "Athens political group."

The candidate criticized Fortson's method of running for governor of Georgia. Larsen told his listeners: "Judge Fortson is a very prominent member of the Georgia Bar Association whose canons of judicial ethics says: 'A presiding judge should avoid making political speeches, or soliciting contributions to political funds, or seek the endorsement for political office and participate in political conventions, but in view of all this Fortson, who is the 'Welton' Walling Wall Convention' with a trade on the governor of Georgia, solicited contributions for Welton's 'Athens politicians' and then sought the nomination of the group."

When Your Skin Rebels at the Excessive Heat

Use This Delightfully Cooling, Soothing Powder Instead of Sticky, Greasy Ointments.

You can't turn off the heat, and you can't stop perspiration these hot days, but you can cool and soothe an irritated, chafed, rashladen, prickly heated skin, and take the fire out of sunburn with Mexican Heat Powder, a modern preparation that is clean, balm and effective.

Simply "dust on" Mexican Heat Powder, wherever the skin is irritated and feel it heat. Try it on your tired, burning feet; for cracked toes, blisters and rawness; use it to dispel body odors, and if you don't find it the most cooling, soothing preparation you ever used, ask for your money back. Your druggist will sell you a trial can of Mexican Heat Powder with this understanding.—(adv.)

For Prison Board

R. K. MANN.

MANN ANNOUNCES FOR PRISON BOARD

Will Oppose Clem Rainey,
Recently Appointed Upon
Death of Father.

R. K. Mann, of Gay, Ga., yesterday announced his candidacy for the prison commission seat of the late Judge E. L. Rainey when he qualified to make the race against Judge Rainey's son, Clem, who is filling the office at present by appointment of Governor Talmadge.

Mann has been connected with the prison department for the past four years, serving two and a half years as bookkeeper and for the past year and a half has divided his time between the office and general inspection for the department.

He is a son of the late Judge J. T. Mann, who was a farmer and peach grower and municipal judge of Gay for more than 20 years. His brother, E. T. Mann, is also a farmer and succeeded his father as municipal judge. Mann has never before sought political office and prior to his removal to Atlanta ran his own farm and peach orchard, in Meriwether county.

eral Surplus Commodities Corporation should arrange to dispose of meat salvaged by donation to state relief agencies.

"There will be no shipping of cattle to sections outside the drought area for grazing purposes, as was done during the severe 1934 drought in the northwest," he said.

"The plan of cattle purchasing will be executed," the secretary explained, "so that prices won't go too high. We will make every effort so as not to disturb the normal function of the cattle selling business."

He said later he had administrative duties awaiting him in Des Moines and did not plan, as originally contemplated, an inspection tour of the drought-stricken areas. After a few days in Des Moines he intends to leave for "my first vacation in seven years."

COST OF DROUGHT PLACED AT $250,000,000

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP)—A widespread damper on the crop consuming drought was forecast by the weather bureau today as various authorities estimated its cost to date at $250,000,000.

Rainfall was predicted for the Ohio valley, the southeastern states and parts of Minnesota and North Dakota—the latter in the heart of the five-state belt including South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana where the dry spell has been characterized as the "worst in history."

The bureau said precipitation this week had relieved the seriousness of the situation in all the affected states except the Dakotas, Montana and also Iowa.

With an estimated 100,000 northwestern farm families needing subsistence aid, President Roosevelt's special drought committee in Washington made plans to push the general relief program into definite form by next week.

On the drought front in five northwestern states, WPA administrators hurried machinery to set 50,000 men to working building conservation dams, roads and other public projects to provide them with an income.

But deterioration of crops continued today and reports of the drought's spread into neighboring prairie provinces of Canada electrified wheat markets over the world. Wheat jumped above the dollar mark here with a five-cent leap—the first allowed for a day. The gain brought to 12 cents the total advance since the disaster to spring wheat first became apparent a month ago. December wheat sold at $1.03 here. Quotations for other commodities joined the upsurge.

Northwest reports told of trainloads of stock being rushed from withered prairies. At Rapid City, S. D., observers said the live stock exodus equalled that of the 1934 drought.

SITUATION ALARMING, GEORGIA REPORT

ATHENS, Ga., July 2.—(AP)—A delegation of 25 farmers from five drought counties told Director Harry L. Brown, of the University of Georgia agricultural extension service, "conditions are alarming" today and suggested relief measures.

The delegation asked for further liberalization in the soil conservation program and that relief funds be allocated to provide work for stricken farmers in pasture improvement, erosion control and other conservation measures on their farms.

Resolutions on the subject were presented under the signature of B. W. Williams, R. C. Cutts, H. C. Kimbrey and Walton Neal, of Harris county; C. D. Conledge and W. E. McKee, of Muscogee; H. V. Miller and W. H. Bagley, of Chattahoochee; E. M. Baldwin and R. M. Blanton, of Talbot; and E. J. Mann and Charles C. Homer, of Meriwether.

The resolutions were approved at a farmers' gathering in Columbus.

The delegation which came here reported a 34 per cent stand of cotton, a 44 per cent stand of "very poor" corn and that pastures, gardens and truck crops were "dried up."

throughout the country Saturday night.

Leave Is Prospected.
As Farley departed, observers speculated on the possibility that he would seek a leave of absence from the cabinet instead of resigning. They pointed to Mr. Roosevelt's reluctance to cause a break in the official family at this time.

Tomorrow, the President will set out for Virginia, where in the afternoon he will dedicate the new skyline drive in Shenandoah National park. The following day he will deliver a July 4 speech at Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson. Later he will board the yacht Potomac at Richmond for a week-end cruise down the James river, stopping at Jamestown, and motoring to Williamsburg for church services Sunday morning.

U. S. TELLS FARMERS HOW TO BEAT DROUGHT

Use Contour Plowing and Only Plant Crops Suitable to 'Zone.'

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—The soil conservation service tonight explained the only two ways to beat the drought:

1. To conserve every drop of water that falls.

2. To plant crops suited to the "zone" in which the farmer lives.

Rainfall can be conserved through proper farm practices, soil conservation officials insist. They offer statistics to prove their point. Chief among the approved farm practices is contour plowing—where the furrow follows the slope of the land instead of being in straight rows regardless of the farm's slant.

One Farmer's Experience.
For example, a farmer on the Hereford, Texas, project in the dust bowl region reported that after 6.55 inches of rainfall extended over a 10-day period from May 18 to 28 the moisture penetration on contour was 37 inches while in adjoining wheat land listed in straight rows the penetration was only 20 inches.

The difference may be that between burned out crops and a meager but harvestable crop.

One SCS expert in the dust bowl region where dust storms as well as drought are a menace predicted on the basis of his experience from years in the field that "the maximum use of water would bridge any drought."

Officials, however, pointed out that crops should be adapted to conditions which farmers may expect to encounter. The precipitation of every region in the United States is on record. All the farmers have to do is look it up—if they don't know what it is from past experiences.

Lilies in Desert.
"No normal person would plant water lilies in the desert," one SCS official explained. "Farmers should follow the same technique."

He pointed out that in some of the western regions farmers planted only one crop every two years so that the field could lay fallow and store up water for the next year's crop. Other regions are hard hit so frequently by long dry spells that it is questionable if crops should be planted on them except as a gamble or speculation on the future weather.

AMERICAN INDUSTRY MAY BE FAVORABLE.
HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—(AP)—An unofficial comment Hollywood tonight interpreted the world censorship of movies, called for by Pope Pius, as favorable to the American motion picture industry.

Will H. Hayes, spokesman for the industry as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, refused official comment on the pope's encyclical letter until he has seen a complete text. But it was said unofficially he considers the action a tacit endorsement of the industry's own censorship plan.

It was pointed out that, in this country, a permanent picture reviewing organization for members of the Catholic church already exists in the Legion of Decency. The pope ordered the establishment of permanent reviewing organizations in every country.

It was admitted privately, by a motion picture executive, that the industry did not voluntarily raise the moral level of its films even when its code of morals was adopted six years ago, and that no serious effort was made to enforce the code until the Legion of Decency, the Catholic church, and similar organizations, compelled the industry to undertake a cleanup campaign of its own.

Many motion pictures were boycotted by the Legion.

The determination of the moral welfare groups of "clean up the motion picture" was met in the industry by the promise to enforce its almost dormant moral code. "Self-regulation" was the keynote of Hollywood's reply. Hayes appointed his first assistant, Joseph I. Breen, as production code authority empowered to censor pictures before their release. Breen has been functioning in this capacity since July 1, 1934.

Georgia.

First-day sale of wholesale and retail liquor and beer occupational stamps by the federal internal revenue collector yesterday resulted in issuance of 252 retail and six wholesale liquor stamps and 81 retail beer and one wholesale beer stamp.

A large proportion of the stamps were sold in Atlanta, according to B. Frank Boyce Jr., assistant internal revenue collector for Georgia. Liquor, wine and malt dealers have through July 31 to purchase these stamps without penalty.

Through May 31, 1936, Uncle Sam had sold a total of 6,432 wholesale and retail beer and liquor stamps, bringing in a return of $128,573. The last month figures are not yet available.

HELEN KILPATRICK NAMED TO BIG JOB

Former Newspaperwoman
Made Advertising Manager of Sears, Roebuck.

The appointment of Miss Helen Kilpatrick to succeed the former Mrs. Sara Barnes as advertising manager of the Atlanta store of Sears, Roebuck & Company was announced yesterday by P. D. McQuiston, manager.

Mrs. Barnes resigned last week upon her marriage to Erwin Beuhm Elliot, of Miami. Miss Kilpatrick has been her assistant for the last two years and has made an enviable record in her field, according to Mr. McQuiston.

The new executive came to Atlanta from New York city, where she did newspaper advertising and publicity work for three years. Prior to that time she worked for several years with the Macmillan Telegraph.

POSS REPORTED SEEN SINCE "SUICIDE" DATE

Doubt that Clarence Poss, 22, of a Neat street address, drowned in the Chattahoochee river June 21 was expressed yesterday by county police after photographs of the young man had been positively identified by two persons who said they talked with Poss on the date he was supposed to have committed suicide.

Deputy Sheriff S. L. Hobgood and R. W. Goggans showed pictures of Poss to Ernie Rainwater, ferryman at Campbell's ferry, and to W. M. Lee, operator of a store in that neighborhood. Rainwater and Lee said they talked with Poss, whom they recognized from his photograph, shortly after the time he disappeared from home, leaving a note to his wife that he intended to jump in the river. They said he bought some tobacco and exhibited a $5 and $10 bill. Overalls and a shirt identified as belonging to Poss were found on the river bank June 21 by county police, who dragged the river for five days in a futile effort to locate a body.

Officers said they were of the opinion Poss did not drown.

LONG COURT FIGHT ENDS IN VICTORY

Atlantans' Relative To Receive Big Sum as Result of Litigation.

Victory after 12 years of litigation over royalty rights on a road grading machine by Roy J. Winsor, inventor, of Marion, Ohio, brought congratulations from Atlanta relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Winsor. The grading machine, a combination road tractor and grader which can be operated by one man, was the result of an idea conceived by the inventor during the World War, when manpower was scarce and two men were required to operate the old type two-piece equipment.

As result of the prolonged patent right controversy, Mr. Winsor will be granted full rights to manufacture the machine and will receive annual payments estimated at between $25,000 and $40,000 for 17 years, it was announced. The equipment, which already has become standard road equipment, reduces the danger of miring as well as saving labor. Mr. Winsor plans to manufacture the machine himself, along with another implement, a road roller, invented by him.

Mrs. Winsor, before her marriage to the inventor, was Mrs. Lorena Sparks. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hall, of Atlanta, and the sister of Mrs. Earl Patton, Mrs. B. F. Avery and A. J. Hall, all of Atlanta. She is the niece of Mrs. Robert Walker, of Griffin, state treasurer of the Georgia U. D. C.; W. O. Britt and A. A. Britt, both of Thomaston, and Mrs. G. C. Greene, of Keston.

15 OF 41 CANDIDATES
PASS STATE BAR TEST

Fifteen of 41 candidates for admission to the Georgia bar successfully passed the recent bar examinations, it was announced yesterday.

Dorsey, F. D. Foster, Frank E. Corrigan, Charles C. Whitaker, Calvin Castlen, Ronald T. Pentecost, Garland James Lambert, Paul A. Scoggins, Alfred Hornstone, Homer Groves Smith, William George Killard, George Richard McGrath, O. W. Hammond and Paul W. Hughes.

SUN DEFENDS EXPLAINS FIGURES

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—The New York Sun said today, in answer to Secretary of Labor Perkins' criticism of its unemployment figures, that "the Sun stands by its estimate."

"The Sun does not include agriculture, domestic and personal service, professional service, public service or fishing in its survey. The Sun deals solely with the manufacturing and mechanical industries, with trade, with mining and with transportation and communication."

"Using the United States census figures of employables as the basis for its survey, the Sun fixes the number of employables in the group in its survey at 28,018,000 in 1929."

"The 7,900,000 other workers, who, Miss Perkins says, were employed in 1929, must have been in domestic and personal service, professional service and miscellaneous categories, not included in the Sun's survey."

"Miss Perkins finds that 5,000,000 of her 35,978,000 employed in May, 1929, were unemployed in May, 1936. The Sun finds that 2,100,000 of its 28,018,000 employed in 1929 were unemployed at the start of 1936. In this number the Sun adds another 1,300,000 new workers who have come into the fields of industry and trade since 1929."

"The Sun to date has accurate returns from the employers of 8,738,000 workers in industry and trade since 1929. The Sun stands by its estimate, that as of January 1, 1936, net unemployment in industry, trade, mining, transportation and communication was not more than 3,500,000."

Surgeon Will Seek To Separate Living Siamese Twin From Dead

MEDFORD, Mass., July 2.—(AP)—A day-old baby girl, joined by bony tissue at the back of the head to her dead twin sister, had a fighting chance for normal life tonight, her doctor said, as he prepared to operate.

The twins, born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Diego Fiorenzo, of Everett, were delivered by Dr. John B. Vernaglia. The tissue, he said, connected each head, and was about 3 by 3 1/2 inches in size.

"Tonight he said, 'I'm going to have to operate,' but just when, he declared, was uncertain."

Termining the case "very, very rare," he said the longer he waited the less would be the chance of shock to the living girl and the clearer, to a surgeon, would become the line of demarcation marking the living organism from the dead.

When he did operate, Dr. Vernaglia said it would be without anesthesia, because, knowing where the line of demarcation lies, he plans to cut the tissue just beyond it, which he said, would be comparatively painless for the little baby.

One reason for hope for the girl, he said, was the apparent lack of blood passing from one body into the other. The first operation, however, would not be the last, Dr. Vernaglia declared. It would just be "the beginning of other operations."

To begin with, he said, there was the danger of meningitis and then the danger of herniation—the live brain organism pressing against the wound. Then came the difficulty of getting the scalp over it and of shaping the head.

The plastic surgery necessary to hide the scar, he said, would be the simplest part of it all.

The most difficult thing so far, he said, had been the delivery—a difficulty which he thought only a doctor could appreciate.

The twin still living, he said, weighed five pounds, the one who died, seven pounds. The mother, Mary Fiorenzo, is 23.

man to "send the schedule of force tactics which will commence the fifth of December."

The letter said: "My dear Mr. Thompson: I received your letter just now after my pretty long trip. I am very glad to know you are doing very good. Don't be hurry. Go slow and steady."

"Since now your monthly salary will be sent not later than the first of each month and tomorrow $300 will be sent, including your December salary, clothes and Christmas present."

"I shall have a very long trip next month and may return in January but not sure. I will send your January salary before I start here. Will you send me the schedule (details) of force tactics which will commence from the fifth of December."

"Please remember that you need not send me reports for all my questions all at one time. One report should be sent me at a time when you get."

Turntime said he was with Thompson on November 5, 1935, when they met Miyazaki on a street corner here. He told of Thompson's movements:

"While we were in San Diego, Thompson made a trip to the destroyer Brooks anchored there. He said he was going to visit a friend. He brought ashore a book with him. . . I saw it that night. It was a schedule of ship movements—where ships were going to be for the next three months."

Turntime said Thompson denied he was working for the Japanese government.

Hillside Cottage Boys Leave for Camp Danitanga

A happy group of Hillside Cottage boys are shown here just before leaving yesterday afternoon for Camp Danitanga, in the Blue Ridge mountains. Atlanta Kiwanians, who are sponsoring the boys' camping trips, were busy yesterday making last-minute purchases. Shown here with the boys, from left to right, are Warren Barlar, camp director; Ernest Beaudry, who furnished the truck; Bomer Spearman, chairman of the Kiwanis Hillside camp committee; Claude Bennett, chairman of the Hillside committee, and Dr. Richard M. Eubanks and Dr. Willis Anderson, members of the Hillside committee. The boys will join groups from several other Georgia cities. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Pedro streets and a car driven by a Japanese drove up. Thompson introduced him to me as 'Tanny.' He told Tanny he hadn't gotten much information but had worked very hard for what he had.

"Tanny gave him some money and told him he would give him more later."

Turntime said Thompson denied he was working for the Japanese government.

ment, but added "he would like to." He said he was getting $200 a month and expected "a bonus soon," Turntime said.

"He first told me he worked for a foreign oil company, but I never saw him do any work."

The government also produced testimony from United States immigration officials showing that when Miyazaki entered the United States August 24, 1935, he said he was going to Washington to contact the Japanese embassy on official business. F. H. Borstadt, chief immigration officer at Angel's Island, produced records showing Miyazaki's statements in answer to routine questions.

STRIKELESS CAMPAIGN IS PROMISED BY LEWIS

eration officials think all workers should be organized by craft, and have ordered the Lewis unions to appear before the federation executive council next week to answer charges of promoting dual unions.

Lewis told reporters he would pay no attention to the summons, and expected his affiliates would do likewise.

The committee also received into membership the United Automobile Workers and the United Rubber Workers and voted to help these unions with organization campaigns.

The industrial organization committee decided to hold three rallies for steel workers—at Chicago and Homestead, Pa., Sunday and in Cleveland next Tuesday.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary of the United Mine Workers and lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, is slated to address the Homestead rally.

"I think it's a safe assumption that the steel corporation will permit the state's lieutenant governor to speak even though they denied Secretary Perkins that privilege," Lewis said.

Miss Perkins spoke to steel workers from the Homestead postoffice steps two years ago after she said she was denied police permission to speak elsewhere.

Lewis is to make a radio talk about the campaign next Monday night.

Mississippi Visitor Accorded Royal Welcome by Friends Here

By Sally Forth.

A ROYAL welcome is being accorded Mrs. John Woolfolk, of Clarksdale, Miss., who is spending this week with her cousin, Mrs. George McCarty Jr. As the former Miriam Sykes, of Columbus, Miss., the visitor spent many summers here with her cousins, the John Ottleys Sr., during her young girlhood.

The affection between Mrs. McCarty, the former Passie May Ottley, and Mrs. Woolfolk is comparable to that between sisters, as each is the only daughter in her family. Sally recalls that the attractive Miss Woolfolk attended Passie May McCarty as bridesmaid at her wedding. Soon after that the bride enacted the role of matron of honor to her cousin when she became Mrs. Woolfolk.

It is interesting to know that the visitor is the mother of two handsome sons, as is Mrs. McCarty, whose boys, George and Ottley, are popular members of Atlanta's younger society.

Although Mrs. Woolfolk's visit is made primarily to Mrs. McCarty, she is enjoying informal spend-the-day get-togethers with friends when she is here. The group includes many of Atlanta's socially prominent young matrons, who are endeavoring to persuade the visitor to extend her stay through another week.

With Mrs. James Wilkinson, of Valdosta, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, the Mississippi shared honors at an informal tea given yesterday at Neely farm. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Morgan were hosts at a small dinner Wednesday evening for Mrs. Woolfolk, who was also honor guest at the dinner party given last evening at the Capital City Club by Mrs. McCarty's parents. On Saturday evening Mrs. Woolfolk will be counted among the important visitors attending the Driving Club dinner-dance when she will be honor guest in the party at which Passie May and George McCarty Jr. will be hosts.

WHEN the steamer Europa steamed out of New York harbor next Tuesday, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Elkin will be numbered among the interesting passengers. They will be accompanied by their sister, Miss Margaret Duncan, who reaches here on Sunday from her home in Kentucky.

Southampton is the Europa's first port of call and here they will leave the steamer to enjoin for London. The itinerary of Dr. and Mrs. Elkin and Miss Duncan can be traced to a tour of England and Scotland before returning to the United States the latter part of August.

AT CAROLINE HAMMOND'S marriage to Boynton Cole last Saturday evening, the assembled guests became a little jittery when 8:30 o'clock came and the ceremony did not begin. Five minutes passed and still there was no sign of the bridal procession.

The audience had visions of something dire having happened to the bride or the groom. More minutes passed, and the wedding just wouldn't begin.

All this time, behind the scenes, the bride party was in a bit of a turmoil. Three of the groomsmen had forgotten their gloves! They were so excited over the part they were to play in the wedding, they claimed, they just couldn't remember small details like gloves.

Jim Austin had had the forethought to bring an extra pair, but they were still two pairs short. In the meantime, anxious groomsmen were frantically calling their homes and members of their families were just as frantically searching for the missing gloves. So the ceremony just had to wait until they could be found and brought to the church.

THE LITERARY DIGEST calls attention to the fact that Benjamin Franklin was the originator of the daylight saving idea. He went the alarm clock one better and suggested that every morning at sunup the church bells should be set ringing. The thrifty Mr. Franklin further insisted that "if that is not sufficient, let cannon be fired on every street to wake the sluggards effectually."

While Henry Ford does not go so far as to advocate the cannon's roar, he eloquently urges everyone to start the day with a song, according to the Music Magazine. Following his advice, every morning at 8:30 o'clock he is on hand in the chapel of Martha and Mary at Greenfield Village to join the school children in singing.

ELLIJAY, Ga., July 2.—The marriage of Miss Myra Elizabeth Kelley and Hollis Bell Bradford took place June 24 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kelley. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. Holt. Candles were lighted by Miss Myra Johnson, niece of the groom. The lovely bride wore flesh lace posed over pink tulle. She wore a large pink hat and pink accessories. Her bridesmaids wore blue and white and carried handkerchiefs belonging to her paternal grandmother. An informal reception was given after the ceremony. Mrs. Bradford is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kelley and was educated at the State Normal school at Athens and has taught several years in the Ellijay school. Mr. Bradford received his education at the state university. The couple left by motor for a trip to North Carolina and Shenandoah valley, with Washington, D. C., as their destination.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

RAD BREAKS.

The familiar fall at the average bridge table is "What a break!" Whether the cause has been the failure of the wailer to win all the finesses he thought he had to try, or the malice of the outstanding trump in grouping themselves in one hand, the groan of anguish is apt to be just as heart-rending.

These wailers overlook a point that should be superabundant. If finesses invariably "worked," and suits always broke favorably, contract would be a pastime for the feeble-minded. There hardly would be such a thing as a difficult hand. Bidding would become 95 per cent of the game. The proper contract having been reached, the greatest expert would have little advantage over a novice. The true measure of a contract player, like the true measure of a man or woman, is the way he meets adversity. The dealer in today's hand was not a "wailer."

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

Service Group Moves the Omnibus To New Site on Peachtree Street

The above picture shows Mrs. Andrew Nicolson and Mrs. Sims Bray examining the collection of articles at The Omnibus at 254 Peachtree street, where the new shop is located. Funds derived from the sale of families accepted on consignment are applied to the support of worthy families sponsored by the Service Group. Photo by J. H. Slayton, staff photographer.

By BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.

The first of the week marked the opening of The Omnibus at 254 Peachtree street, the new location where members of the Service Group operate a shop several doors beyond the Capital City Club. Articles are accepted on consignment and sold for a percentage to be applied to the welfare work sponsored by the Service Group, whose volunteer devotion to duty allows nothing to interfere with the days allotted to them to serve at The Omnibus.

About three years ago when economic stress was brought about by the depression, well-known Atlanta women opened The Omnibus on West Peachtree street. No rent was paid for the store because Mrs. Charles A. Conklin, a member of the Service Group, offered free use of a building which she owned. Here articles were received on consignment and funds accruing therefrom were used to support needy and worthy families in order to save despairing people from spiritual and financial shipwreck.

The new and spacious quarters on Peachtree street houses everything imaginable to use and wear. The basement is filled with furniture, sewing machines, screen doors and gas heaters. The ground floor is beautified by the attractive arrangement of glassware, china, lamps, silver, framed mirrors, paintings, clocks, bric-a-brac, shoes, slippers, daytime and evening dresses, hand-made bed spreads and antiques. The balcony is given over to the display of men's suits, overcoats, hats, shoes and ties. Red predominates in the handsome original rug covering the floor in the window, where divans, vases and chairs add to the effective setting. A gorgeous silver soup tureen will excite the envy of housekeepers, and a silver hot water kettle dates to the eighteenth century. A pair of Waterford glass candelabra sparkle with the rays of the sunlight and several hundred sample lengths of brocade, chintz and taffeta can be bought in yard lengths.

A pair of glass hurricane lamps mounted on Sheffield silver belong to Mrs. Grace Seabrook Whaley Jones, of Charleston, S. C., and have quite a history. The lamps were made in the present owner by her mother, Mrs. Julia Seabrook, descendant of the aristocratic Edisto Island Seabrook family.

The 100-year-old lamps adorned a revolutionary home on Edisto Island which is about 50 miles from Charleston.

The reducing machine on sale at The Omnibus is said to work the poundage off without the agony of dieting. The black enameled, fast set has a table and six chairs and is trimmed with gold and red markings. A Florentine table boasts a brown marble top and an odd chair is upholstered with Aubusson petit point.

The costume jewelry will delight young and old feminine admirers, and chests of drawers, wing chairs, and ware, steins, bathing suits, clocks and day on the S. S. Dorchester en route home via Savannah, after having spent some time in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Wade left Tuesday for a motor trip on the west coast of Florida.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Lamkin have returned from Daytona Beach, where they spent the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. H. John Williams, of Indianapolis, Ind., are spending their vacation with Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Lett, in Fairburn, Ga.

Mrs. Bessie Margolin leaves today for New York city, where she will spend the month of July.

Chicks Take Second From Crackers; Vols Play Here Tonight

PANAMA CITY, R. P., With Georgia Tech Naval Unit, June 30.—(By Air Mail.)—On the second day they moved the nine destroyers out of Limon bay and headed them into the passage leading toward the Panama canal.

The naval unit from Georgia Tech was lined up on the deck of the forecabin—looking very smart. The breeze was blowing their whites against their legs and their sun-burned faces were taking on more sun—the awnings being down.

Lieutenant Tom Dykers, the popular lieutenant serving as cruise officer, was speaking:

"We are now moving into the channel of the canal," he said. "We will pass through three locks and into Gatun lake. There will be swimming there, but those swimming are asked to be on the lookout for alligators."

(The faces of the Georgia Tech unit blanched beneath their tan.)

"Well, bust by briches," said Luther Drennon.

"That settles that," said Turner Loehr Jr., dropping to the deck his bathing suit which he had in his hands.

The Georgia boys have seen too many post card pictures of small colored boys begin bitten in a sensitive section of the anatomy to go in swimming where there are alligators. Or even where there might be alligators.

(Once they reached the lake they found the swimming excellent. The alligators don't come in to the docks.)

THE PANAMA CANAL.

We came in sight of the locks. The destroyers were lashed together, two by two. Four of them go into one of the locks at one time.

We entered the first lock. The big gates swung slowly shut. They are more than 100 feet high. And then the water began to pour in. The ships began to rise.

The ships which enter from the Atlantic side, as did the ships carrying the boys from Georgia Tech, Yale, Harvard and Northwestern, go up steps. Water steps.

The Atlantic ocean is much lower than the Pacific. And Lake Gatun is 84 feet above the Atlantic. So the ships literally go upstairs.

The first lock fills. The next gates open and the iron "mules" pull the ships into the next lock. The gates swing closed. The water pours in. The ships rise. The next gates open. The ships move in. The water rises. The gates swing open.

And there is Gatun lake—84 feet higher than the ocean which the ships left an hour before.

The ships have gone upstairs to the lake. The remainder of the journey sees the ships go downstairs to the Pacific ocean. The journey across is just 51 miles. It occupies about six hours. It saves about three or three weeks—depending on the speed of the vessel.

INTO LAKE GATUN.

Lake Gatun covers a modest little area of 166 miles. That's all. It "made" the Panama canal. The French would have completed their canal had they had the idea of damming the Gatun river and forming the huge lake through the hills and mountains of the isthmus.

Once it was formed they dredged and dug the channel. Culverha cut saw several million square feet of earth taken from the hills. There was a job they call it Gaillard cut now, after one of the heroes of the canal. It involved taking away half a mountain.

The lake created islands. Sections of it, where the bare tree trunks rise above the water, look like the famous Reelfoot lake in west Tennessee.

It is more than 30 miles long, this lake which the United States created in building the Panama canal. And through it move the ships of the world, steaming at near full speed in the great lake that lies between the locks of the Atlantic and Pacific sides of the isthmus.

And you can explain why the Pacific is four or five feet higher than the Atlantic and why the tides on the Pacific side run 16 feet to the 4 to 6 feet on the Atlantic side.

The nine destroyers were anchored in the lake. Boats took the boys ashore to the Gatun railroad docks and station.

ON TO PANAMA.

On this particular morning, next to the last in their stay, the boys boarded a special train and rode across the isthmus to Panama City, the old capital of the Panama Republic.

It was a short ride. Looking out the window, these boys from Georgia saw:

Bananas hanging in bunches from trees in the small groves near the houses of farmers along the way. They marveled, most of them, that the bananas grew pointing upward and not hanging downward as one sees them at stores.

They saw the mango fruit, limes, coconuts, pineapples and other tropical fruit.

And then there was Balboa, the Canal Zone city of canal officials.

And then across "the limit" and the "Fourth of July avenue" into the Republic of Panama. (The Canal Zone belongs to the United States and reaches only five miles on each side of the canal.)

Panama is a foreign city. Colon, on the Atlantic side, is a foreign city. Both are in the same republic. Yet they are completely different.

Panama is Panama. Its narrow and broad streets, its abrupt changes from ancient to modern structures, its unique shops and streets make it a most interesting city. One catches a glimpse, now and then, of the Pacific as one looks down some street.

A FEW SIGHTS.

Most of the boys went on tour. They drove the nine miles to the site of Old Panama.

There are the old ruins. And the old wells that supplied the city. It was burned by the pirate, Morgan, in the latter part of 1600.

Morgan carried away much gold. And then, after his men had made their way through the terrible jungle and swamps and sacked the city and after they had carried back the gold, he sailed away and left most of them on an island.

Pleasant fellow, this Morgan. He lived to become Sir Henry Morgan, knighted by the British crown and made governor of Jamaica.

But the lads left behind after the sacking of Panama remembered the old Russian proverb:

"When you sup with the devil, use a long spoon."

JACOBS IN FINALS OF NET TOURNEY AT WIMBLEDON

Beats Polish Star To Enter Last Round for Fifth Time.

By Gayle Talbot.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—(P)—For the fifth time in her career, Helen Jacobs, of the unyielding spirit, today fought her way to the finals of the all-England tennis championship with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Jadwiga Jedzejowska, of Poland.

On Saturday Helen will play Frau Hilda Krawinkel Sperling, the German star for the title that escaped her by a single point last year when she muffed the simplest kind of a smash against Mrs. Helen Willis Moody.

Almost without exception, the 14,000 spectators who watched Helen carefully chop her way to a triumph over the plump, pigeon-toed Pole, were hoping she'd at last achieve her ambition, a Wimbledon championship.

At the same time, after marveling at Frau Sperling's seven-league strides and deadly accuracy in disposing of Mme. Simone Mainme, of France, 6-3, 6-2, they realized Helen still had a mighty high mountain to cross. She defeated Frau Sperling in the semi-finals last year but the German star has been playing great tennis this season.

PERRY TAPES FEET.

Meanwhile Fred Perry, defending champion, and Baron Gottfried von Cramm, who'll meet in the men's final tomorrow, took things easy. Perry's feet, blistered in his match against Don Budge yesterday, were heavily taped.

Miss Jacobs seldom has looked better than she did in spiking the heavy artillery of the husky, pile-driving Miss Jedzejowska. For a while in the first set, when her opponent led 3-2 and then 4-3, the American's supporters were a bit worried.

Then Helen settled down and fed her rival, who thrives on speed, nothing but soft shots, again in disposing of Miss Jedzejowska. For a while in the first set, when her opponent led 3-2 and then 4-3, the American's supporters were a bit worried.

SPEED DEMONS READY TO RACE HERE SATURDAY

Yesterday's Rain Helps To Condition Mile Track at Lakewood.

With a score of speed demons entered and Billy Winn, world's champion; Billy DeVore, west coast star, and "Big Bill" France hurrying here from far-off points to be on hand for the speed fray, everything looms bright for the A. A. A. auto races to take place Saturday when Lakewood will present the thirteenth annual auto speed events.

The Vore telegraphed that he was en route to Atlanta from Lexington, Ky. Billy Winn telephoned from Cincinnati he was humming along to Atlanta with his red-shirted crew of speed demons while France air-mailed a letter from Roanoke, Va., to say that he'd be here in ample time.

Yesterday's rain was termed a "brilliant dollar storm" by Colonel William Ross Jesse, vice president of Southern Speedways, who stated he had been advised by President Mike Beaton while France air-mailed a letter from Roanoke, Va., to say that he'd be here in ample time.

O. HENRY ENCORE

The Lost Works of W. Sidney Porter (O. Henry)

BINKLEY'S PRACTICAL SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

INSTALLMENT II

"When I returned to the office, the entire staff was there with their work turned in. The truth is I was so excited by what I had taken that I hardly knew what I was reading when I looked over their copy, but with a mistaken confidence in the ability of my scholars, I let the stuff all go on the file, and shortly afterward the foreman carried it away. I instructed the night editor as to his duties and went home, to dream of my good fortune.

"The next morning I came down about 9 o'clock, and it seemed to me I couldn't see anything but newsboys. The town was full of them, and people were buying my paper as fast as the boys could hand them out. I fairly swelled with satisfaction and pride. As I neared the office I saw five men with shagreened standing on the sidewalk.

"One of them caught sight of me, and took a snap shot at me as I turned the corner. A buckshot went through my ear and several through my hat. I didn't wait for explanation, as the other four men tried to get a shot at me, and I cut around the corner and dodged into a back lot full of empty dry goods boxes.

"A newsboy went by, calling the paper, and I whistled him up to a crack in the fence and bought one. I thought perhaps there might be something in the paper that had offended somebody.

"I crawled into the big box and opened the paper. The more I read the wilder I became. Excuse me for changing the subject," continued the ragged man, "but you said something a while ago in reference to this liquid refreshment, which I perceive is already finished."

The ragged man stammered, hesitated, felt in his vest pocket once more and then arose, and taking the saloon man aside, whispered with him for about 15 minutes. The result was that the saloon man brought another bottle of wine, but with a very bad grace, slamming the bottle and glasses upon the table in an ill-bred and ungracious manner.

The ragged man smiled, filled the glasses, and then, his face taking a deep frown as his mind reverted to his story, he continued:

Colonel J. Henry Gwinn, the administrator of the Perkins estate, has robbed the family of the deceased of over $10,000. The heirs will bring suit for that amount at an early date.

"I remembered that the man who fired at me looked a good deal like Colonel J. Henry Gwinn. The next item was as follows:

"A certain city alderman residing not many miles from No. 1200 West Thirty-second street, has recently built a $10,000 residence. Votes in the city council must be getting higher."

There were about 15 items of the same kind and every one of them was a dead shot for big damages. I glanced at the society columns and saw a few harmless little squibs like the following:

"Mrs. General Crowder gave a ball last night on Johnson avenue. It does seem as if she would get a divorce from that ticket agent in Kansas City before long."

AUNT HET

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

she tried to cut such a swell as old Crowder's wife."

"Henry's vainglorious beat his wife again last night."

"The Ladies' Patriotic Society met last evening over Klein's music store. Miss Sadie Dodson was overcome by the heat and was taken home in a hack. Heat! That's a new name for it."

"These are some of the least objectionable items. There were some that made my hair rise slowly on my head as I read them."

"Mechanically I turned to the editorial page, thinking it hardly possible there could be anything wrong with it. The first article charged every city and county official with corruption in office, calling them by name and wound up by offering to give $10,000 to any charity fund if the paper did not prove every charge within 10 days."

"I crept through the lot, knocked a board off the next fence and made my way back to the back stairway of the office. I found two of my reporters cursing and kicking in the back yard. Coal dust and the other was hanging by his caitail on a picket fence. Somebody had thrown them out the window."

"Sick at heart I crept upstairs to the editorial rooms. There was considerable noise going on. I went in as quietly as I could and looked around. My $50 editorial writer was in a corner with a half a chair in his hands defending himself manfully against a quorum of the city council. He had laid out three of them and was putting up a great fight. The city editor was lying on the floor with four men sitting on him, and a large, angry German was trying to punch his dramatic editor off the top of the book case with a piece of gas pipe."

"It is enough to discourage any man to have a staff that is paying him $1,400 per month treated that way."

"I went into my private office, and the enraged public followed me there. I knew it was no use to argue with them, so I pulled out my checkbook and tried to compromise. When all the money I had in the bank was exhausted, and another batch of infuriated citizens came in, I gave up in despair."

"At 11 o'clock the business office force came up in a body and resigned. At 12 o'clock damage suits were filed against the paper to the amount of $200,000, and I knew every one of them was good for a judgment. I went down stairs and got about nine drinks and came back. I met the editorial writer on the stairs, and I hit him on the point of the chin without saying a word. He still held one leg of the chair in his hand, and he swiped me over the head with it and ran. When I got inside I found that the dramatic critic was about to win the day. He was a college man and a great football player. He had thrashed the big German and had pulled the four citizens off the city editor, and they were waging a great battle with the foe. Just then the society editor dashed into the room barefooted, in his shirt and trousers, and I heard a tremendous screaming and chattering, as if a thousand parrots were talking at once.

"Run!" he gasped out. "The women are coming."

"I looked out the window and saw that the sidewalk was full of them. I made a break for a back window, jumped off onto a shed, and never stopped. Until I was a mile out of town. That was the end of Binkley's Practical School of Journalism. I have been tramping about the country ever since."

"The fellow I attacked on the street today was a special Houston correspondent I had engaged. I had a little grudge against him on account of the first communication he sent the paper. I gave him carte blanche to send in what he thought best, and he wired us 40,000 words the first day about the mocking-birds singing in the trees by the court house, while the snow was three feet deep in Dakota. Do you not think I have had some hard luck?"

"I must tell you," said the Post Man, "that I don't believe your story at all."

The ragged man replied sadly and reproachfully: "Did I not pay my last dollar for refreshments while telling it to you? Have I asked you for anything?"

"Well," said the Post Man, after reflecting a while, "it may be true, but"

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Farber, Ph.D.

Contrary to general belief among crowds who attend horse races, the jockeys never use their spurs on the horses. They are worn merely because it is an old custom, and a race-track tradition. Neither are racing horses ever given water to drink at the end of a race, as is commonly supposed. To do so would be injurious to the horse. Water is not given till the horse has cooled off. In many cases, it is really the jockey who wins the race, rather than the horse, and some people place their money on certain jockeys rather than on the horse.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

OUR OWN SAFETY WEEK.

V—In the Home.

Even the home has its dangers! It's really too bad—there ought to be at least one place where we could be as safe as we'd like—but figures show that the most dangerous place is the home.

At some time there may have been a child who grew up without ever having a home, but that's not the case here. Most, if not all, small boys and girls fall down rather often.

Since that is the case, it seems to me that our homes should be furnished in such a way that a little one will not suffer too much when he falls. I am thinking of round corners for furniture. Square corners and points in furniture bring special danger to children from the beginning of the walking stage to the age of six or seven. There is also danger (though not so great) for those above the age of seven.

The seats and backs of chairs can be rounded. Table tops, shelves, day-ports and beds may be rounded, about their outside edges. Round-cornered furniture may cost a bit more than that with square corners, but it is more than worth the difference.

If we are going to make our homes safer places to live in, we must remember the round corners! Slippery floors, loose rugs over which a person may trip, and the custom of leaving dusters or whatnot on stairways, are other things which often bring harm to people in the home. "Let's have a safer home!" is a motto we might place on the wall.

JUST NUTS

WHAT STATION ARE YOU TRYIN' TO GET?

Falls are among the things which bring injury in the home. Some tumble down the stairs which is the wrong way to get to the bottom. Others try to reach things by standing on chairs, and lose their balance. Some even "fall upstairs"—that is, they slip as they are going up the steps.

The way to save yourself from falls on the stairs is to walk, not run, while you are going up or down, and to make sure you have a firm footing on each step. There should be light on the stairways—some of the worst falls have taken place on dark cellar stairways. It is well to have a handrail at each side of the stairs.

If you stand on a chair, be sure to rest your feet at about the middle, so you won't tip over. In some homes there are short, strong stairpladders which are used when a person wants to reach something on a high shelf. They are safer than some kinds of "ladders" but they, too, must be used with care.

At some time there may have been a child who grew up without ever having a home, but that's not the case here. Most, if not all, small boys and girls fall down rather often.

Since that is the case, it seems to me that our homes should be furnished in such a way that a little one will not suffer too much when he falls. I am thinking of round corners for furniture. Square corners and points in furniture bring special danger to children from the beginning of the walking stage to the age of six or seven. There is also danger (though not so great) for those above the age of seven.

The seats and backs of chairs can be rounded. Table tops, shelves, day-ports and beds may be rounded, about their outside edges. Round-cornered furniture may cost a bit more than that with square corners, but it is more than worth the difference.

If we are going to make our homes safer places to live in, we must remember the round corners! Slippery floors, loose rugs over which a person may trip, and the custom of leaving dusters or whatnot on stairways, are other things which often bring harm to people in the home. "Let's have a safer home!" is a motto we might place on the wall.

The leaflet called "Marvells of the Sky" contains a diagram showing sizes of the planets and their distance from the sun. It tells about Donati's comet and other wonders. If you want a copy, without charge, send a 5¢ stamp, return envelope to me in care of The Atlanta Constitution.
